Marshal's status will be put to vote

NEW MADRID — A proposal to change the city marshal office in New Madrid from an elective one to an appointive police chief position, and an annexation proposition before Morehouse voters are the only issues to be decided in Tuesday's city elections in New Madrid County, other than filling elective offices.

Unless a late surge of activity develops on the issue to change the marshal office, the New Madrid election will be a quiet one. Incumbent aldermen without opposition for new two- year tersm are ward one alderman Bill Boyd, ward two alderman Ed LaValle and ward three alderman John A. Hunter.

A proposal to incorporate 26 acres west of the Morehouse city limits is expected to meet little opposition as Roy F. and Rosalie M. Hough, owners of the tract, favor the annexation by the city.

Four of the six incumbent candidates for Morehouse offices are opposed for re- election. Mayor Marlin L. Swinger is opposed by former mayor Charley L. Neal, city marshal L. M. Rodgers is opposed by Taft Milem and Gerald R. Rogers is seeking to unseat collector Manuel J. Taylor.

Ward one alderman Woodrow Bolen is opposed by three candidates, Billy J. Ellis, John L. Eaker and James H. Green.

Unopposed for re- election are Police Judge W. E. Morgan and ward two alderman Gene Cagle.

Portageville election activity includes contests in each of the six elective offices to be filled.

Mrs. Helen Thompson, the first woman to seek the post of mayor, is opposed by former mayor Barry Richardson and Jimmy D. Foster.

A three- man contest is being waged between Preston Shaw, Benny Goodman and Albert (Bud) Sisson for the ward one alderman's post being vacated by Lewis Hoxworth.

Ward two alderman Don Rone is opposed for re- election by Bill Brown.

Other races include Delbert Richardson and Margaret DeRousse Phillips for collector; Police Chief Joe Moore, opposed by Jack Young; and Taylor Noles Sr., opposed for a one- year unexpired term for police judge by Joe Holland.

For the first election in Tallapoosa in over 25 years, voters have a choice of candidates for the offices of mayor, marshal and four aldermen.

A five- member board of trustees has been governing the town since June, 1972. The New Madrid County Court made the appointments upon petition by citizens in a move to reactivate the town board which had ceased to functioin many years ago.

Two board trustees who filed for mayor are Leo Deprow and Elizabeth Abshier. Board trustee Carl Deprow is opposed for town marshal by Ralph Huggins.

Four aldermen will be chosen from among eight candidates, which include two of the present board trustees. Candidates are Russell Deprow, Marvin Finlon, board trustee Orby Taylor, Herbert Deprow, Alfred Horad, Wilma Moore, board trustee C. W. Craig and Fauline Roberts.

In Howardville there are contests for two alderman posts. The Rev. James Junior Young is opposed by John H. Owens for ward one alderman, vacated by Tom Jennings.

Ward two alderman Clennon Farr is opposed for re- election by Larcenia McClarien.

There is a contest between incumbent Bob Harris and Joyce Presley for east ward alderman in Risco. Unopposed for re- election are west ward alderman Oscar Miller, Police Judge Raymond Love and Police Chief Alfred Scott.

Both incumbent aldermen in Gideon have opposition for re- election. Mrs. Billie Lamar, north ward alderman, is opposed by Tommy Goings, and Ernest Rackley is seeking to unseat south ward alderman William E. (Jack) LaMar.

Five of the seven Parma incumbent candidates are opposed for re- election. Only Mayor Randall Ramsey and ward two alderman A. B. Parker are unopposed.

In a three- man race Marshal Hollis (Doc) Lindley is opposed by George Max Terrill and Alvin Curtis Hunt.

Mrs. Flora Garrard is opposed for re- election as collector by Mrs. Betty Pawielski Stanley.

Police Judge John Teeters is opposed by Harry C. Batz.

Doyle Crow, serving by appointment as ward one alderman, is opposed for a one- year unexpired term by William (Bill) Blevins.

Ward two alderman Carleton Lewis is opposed by Ivan Pulling.

In Canalou, there is a three- way race between W. A. Adams, John Oliver and Ruth Box for a two- year term as ward one alderman.

J. D. Basinger and Gary Hartline have filed for an unexpired one- year term as alderman in ward one. Genevieve Latham is unopposed for ward two alderman.

There is one contest in Lilbourn between Larry Joe Holtzhouser and Welton Henry for a two- year term as west ward alderman, which is being vacated by Bill Jones. East ward alderman Dick Twitty is unopposed for re- election.

Crash victim identified

MATTHEWS — A youth who burned to death in a car train accident Wednesday has been identified as 16 - year - old Larry Wayne Hoskins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyeal Hoskins of Morehouse.

New Madrid County coroner Gene Clayton said identification was made by a ring on his left little finger, which had been described by his father, and by one of his shoes. Young Hoskins' body was burned beyond recognition.

Another victim, Poney Lee Brewer, 35, of Sikeston Route Three, was killed when their car was struck broadside by a Frisco train and caught fire at the Main Street crossing. Brewer was thrown from the car. Hoskins had been seen about 8:30 a.m. with Brewer in Morehouse, and they reportedly had gone to Matthews to look at a car.

Clayton said student engineer Richard Lantz of Chaffee was at the controls of the train which was reportedly traveling at 50 miles an hour.

According to witnesses, the train sounded a warning whistle and the red flashing signals at the crossing were on and working.

The Sikeston fire department rescue squad was called to the scene to remove Hoskins' body from the wreckage.

Brewer was born Aug. 1, 1937 in Wayne County, Tenn., to Mrs. Sarah Frost Brewer and the late Edward W. Brewer. He had been a resident of Southeast Missouri most of his life. On May 9, 1967, he married Geraldine Fowler, who survives.

Other survivors include one son, Steven Lee Brewer of the home; three brothers, Charles Edward Brewer of Dallas, Tex., Robert Eugene Brewer of Batesville, Ark., and Dexter Ray Brewer of Morehouse; and two sisters, Mrs. Irene Boshears of Dexter and Mrs. Myrtle Carrington of Morehouse.

The body is at Watkins and Sons Funeral Home in Morehouse where friends may call after 11 a.m. Friday.

Services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday with the Rev. Robert Cates of Matthews and Leo Mays of Dexter officiating.

Burial will be in Dogwood Cemetery near East Prairie.

Hoskins was born May 5, 1956 in Sikeston and attended Sikeston High School.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by three brothers, Bill, Roy and Darrell of the home; four sisters, Mrs. Norma Jean

McElrath named superintendent

EAST PRAIRIE— Gerald W. McElrath, assistant superintendent of Jackson public schools, has been employed by the East Prairie R- 2 board of education as superintendent of schools. He will assume his duties July 1.

McElrath, a native Missourian, was born in Washington County and moved to Dexter in early childhood. He was educated in the Dexter schools, served in the Navy, attended college and returned to Dexter to begin his teaching career in 1950.

While in Dexter, McElrath served successively as elementary teacher, principal and director of curriculum before accepting the superintendency at Gideon, where he worked for seven years.

He holds the bachelor and master of arts degrees from George Peabody Collge at Nashville, Tenn., and has done graduate work at the University of Missouri- Columbia and Southeast State University at Cape Girardeau. He has served as president of the Southeast Missouri Principals Association and is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, sponsored by University of Missouri, and many professional administrative associations. He has also been active in civic and religious activities.

Gerald McElrath

McElrath's family includes his wife and a son and daughter, both of whom teach at the elementary school level. Mr. and Mrs. McElrath will move to East Prairie at the close of the present school term.

McElrath replaces Ray Melton, who resigned effective June 30, to accept the position of superintendent of the New Madrid County R- 1 enlarged school district.

Marshal's status will be put to vote

NEW MADRID — A proposal to change the city marshal office in New Madrid from an elective one to an appointive police chief position, and an annexation proposition before Morehouse voters are the only issues to be decided in Tuesday's city elections in New Madrid County, other than filling elective offices.

Unless a late surge of activity develops on the issue to change the marshal office, the New Madrid election will be a quiet one. Incumbent aldermen without opposition for new two- year tersm are ward one alderman Bill Boyd, ward two alderman Ed LaValle and ward three alderman John A. Hunter.

A proposal to incorporate 26 acres west of the Morehouse city limits is expected to meet little opposition as Roy F. and Rosalie M. Hough, owners of the tract, favor the annexation by the city.

Four of the six incumbent candidates for Morehouse offices are opposed for re- election. Mayor Marlin L. Swinger is opposed by former mayor Charley L. Neal, city marshal L. M. Rodgers is opposed by Taft Milem and Gerald R. Rogers is seeking to unseat collector Manuel J. Taylor.

Ward one alderman Woodrow Bolen is opposed by three candidates, Billy J. Ellis, John L. Eaker and James H. Green.

Unopposed for re-election are Police Judge W. E. Morgan and ward two alderman Gene Cagle.

Portageville election activity includes contests in each of the six elective offices to be filled.

Mrs. Helen Thompson, the first woman to seek the post of mayor, is opposed by former mayor Barry Richardson and Jimmy D. Foster.

A three- man contest is being waged between Preston Shaw, Benny Goodman and Albert (Bud) Sisson for the ward one alderman's post being vacated by Lewis Hoxworth.

Ward two alderman Don Rone is opposed for re-election by Bill Brown.

Other races include Delbert Richardson and Margaret DeRousse Phillips for collector; Police Chief Joe Moore, opposed by Jack Young; and Taylor Noles Sr., opposed for a one- year unexpired term for police judge by Joe Holland.

For the first election in Tallapoosa in over 25 years, voters have a choice of candidates for the offices of mayor, marshal and four aldermen.

A five- member board of trustees has been governing the town since June, 1972. The New Madrid County Court made the appointments upon petition by citizens in a move to reactivate the town board which had ceased to functioin many years ago.

Two board trustees who filed for mayor are Leo Deprow and Elizabeth Abshier. Board trustee Carl Deprow is opposed for town marshal by Ralph Huggins.

Four aldermen will be chosen from among eight candidates, which include two of the present board trustees. Candidates are Russell Deprow, Marvin Finlon, board trustee Orby Taylor, Herbert Deprow, Alfred Horad, Wilma Moore, board trustee C. W. Craig and Fauline Roberts.

In Howardville there are contests for two alderman posts. The Rev. James Junior Young is opposed by John H. Owens for ward one alderman, vacated by Tom Jennings.

Ward two alderman Clennon Farr is opposed for re- election by Larcenia McClarien.

There is a contest between incumbent Bob Harris and Joyce Presley for east ward alderman in Risco. Unopposed for re- election are west ward alderman Oscar Miller, Police Judge Raymond Love and Police Chief Alfred Scott.

McElrath named superintendent

EAST PRAIRIE— Gerald W. McElrath, assistant superintendent of Jackson public schools, has been employed by the East Prairie R- 2 board of education as superintendent of schools. He will assume his duties July 1.

McElrath, a native Missourian, was born in Washington County and moved to Dexter in early childhood. He was educated in the Dexter schools, served in the Navy, attended college and returned to Dexter to begin his teaching career in 1950.

While in Dexter, McElrath served successively as elementary teacher, principal and director of curriculum before accepting the superintendency at Gideon, where he worked for seven years.

He holds the bachelor and master of arts degrees from George Peabody Collge at Nashville, Tenn., and has done graduate work at the University of Missouri-Columbia and Southeast State University at Cape Girardeau. He has served as president of the Southeast Missouri Principals Association and is a member of Phi Delta Kappa, sponsored by University of Missouri, and many professional administrative associations. He has also been active in civic and religious activities.

Gerald McElrath

McElrath's family includes his wife and a son and daughter, both of whom teach at the elementary school level. Mr. and Mrs. McElrath will move to East Prairie at the close of the present school term.

McElrath replaces Ray Melton, who resigned effective June 30, to accept the position of superintendent of the New Madrid County R- 1 enlarged school district.

While motherhood, applie pie and religion are now being aligned against the so-called Equal Rights Amendment, some "equality- NOW" women do occasionally have a point. Take, for example, the case of three female School Board members in a Washington, D. C. suburb.

The Board consists of seven members; three women, and four men. On a recently published Board of Education flyer, the men were listed professionally as: Department of Commerce, Aerospace Engineer, Mental Health Administrator — H.E.W., and National Institute of Education. However, the official list published listed all three women simply as "housewife."

Those three little ladies didn't waste any time protesting the lack of interest shown them by the designation "housewife." They are, they declared, professional women, and they further declared that they should receive equal and proper recognition. One is an art therapist and a book review editor, another a reporter for the U.S.I.A., and the third is a lab assistant and substitute teacher.

While proud of their role as housewives, mothers and cooks, (even as the male members, hopefully, should be proud of their roles as husbands, fathers and wage-earners), they felt that they should be credited for other accomplishments, as were the males.

"After all" they argued, "what one does privately doesn't enter into it. When the past Board president was listed on last year's flyer, he was described as 'retired'. No one thought to designate him 'house husband'!"

The embarrassed male who complied and published the School Board list admitted that he hadn't thought to query the women about their professional standings. Next time, he'll know better!

It seems that the Postal Service is being strangled by its own bureaucracy. I would like to call your attention to the laws prohibiting the carriage of first- class letters by private agencies. These laws are not only a violation of the spirit of the free enterprise system, but they are hindering the efficient delivery of mail since it has been demonstrated that private carriers can provide faster service at lower cost than the Federal Postal Service is able to provide. Therefore, I am introducing a bill to repeal certain provisions of the law relating to private carriage of letters."

INTERESTED PARTIES ASK OF NEW SERVICE CONTROL OF INFORMATION?

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond's Administration has created the Missouri Information Service. Legislators, reporters and public information officers in state agencies are asking: "Will it become government control of information?"

Bruce Blomgren, director of the Missouri Information Service in the Office of Administration, says no.

"We hope to increase the flow of information," Blomgren said.

So far the information service has taken control of reproducing and distributing news releases for 10 state agencies with plans to include more.

Blomgren says his department will not screen news or change the contest of news releases from state agencies.

Asked whether his department would distribute news releases critical of the Bond administration, Blomgren said, "We'll cross that bridge when we come to it.

"I don't think we would be involved," Blomgren said. He believes state agencies in the executive branch would not use the Missouri Information Service to criticize Bond.

"A director critical of the governor would go to the press directly and not through us," Blomgren said.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, president pro tem of the Senate, said he has information which he can substantiate that news releases from one state agency have been censored by the Missouri Information Service.

"There isn't anything coming out of these state agencies that doesn't agree with Kit (Bond)," Cason said.

He would not give a specific example.

Both the Senate and the House recently hired information officers independent of the information service.

Bond said Cason's charge of censorship was not true. "That's unfortunate. It has no basis," Bond said.

Jacob H. Wolf, Bond's communication assistant, said he could not comment on Cason's charge without specific facts.

Wolf, a former reporter for the St. Louis Post- Dispatch, said he has received no complaints from newsmen.

Several state agency information officers say they fear the control of information but none had any proof that it has happened.

Blomgren attributes the fear of censorship, in part, to suspicion of the new system. Blomgren also said some information positions now vacant will not be filled, and some jobs will be eliminated under the coordinated plan.

Bond said the Missouri Information Service was created to provide people with more information about their state government.

"The information is there. We're doing everything we can to get it to the people," Bond said.

So far, more news about state government has been given to the capitol press corps, reporters say.

The prevailing fear among several veteran reporters is that eventually state agencies will become isolated from the press.

Wolf said newsmen will always be free to pursue any release of information through the information service by talking directly to agency directors or employes.

"If it doesn't work, we'll be the first to admit it," Wolfe said. "But it has worked in other states."

Wolf referred to the Illinois News Service where Blomgren worked before coming to Missouri.

Besides press releases, the Missouri Information Service provides tape recorded messages allowing radio and television stations to call and record the voice of the state official reading part of the news release.

Blomgren said so far the recorded message available 24-hours - a day has been successful. He said a counter installed on the recorder last week showed as many as 75 calls a day.

Blomgren cites cost savings and coordination of existing public information talent as two advantages to the system.

One information officer complained that the Missouri Information Service has edited releases. Both Blomgren and Wolfe said errors will be corrected but the context of news releases will not be changed.

Blomgren said state agencies can request the service but nobody will force use of it.

Apparently the legislature is also watching the service.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Nothing to Hide?

WASHINGTON — Washington is buzzing about President Nixon's possible role in the Watergate case. Did he authorize the political espionage and sabotage? Was he aware of the bread-in and bugging of Democratic party headquarters? What is he trying to hide by ordering subordinates not to answer Senate questions about Watergate?

The President tried to answer the whispers last week by letting Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott pass on to the press a private remark. "Hugh," the GOP leader quoted the President as telling him, "I have nothing to hide. The White House has nothing to hide. I repeat, we have nothing to hide."

Our own White House sources say the President certainly did not authorize anyone to send a burglary-bugging team into the Democratic lair. But they acknowledge that he approved the overall espionage- sabatoge operation.

Nixon grew up in the Murray Chotiner school of politics. "Find out everything there is to know about the opposition candidate," Chotiner used to tell his political charges. "Some protest we don't want to run that kind of campaign. They say they want to run a constructive campaign and point out the merits of our own candidacy. I say to you in all sincerity that if you do not deflate the opposition candidate before your own campaign gets started, the odds are you are going to be doomed to defeat."

'BE ON OFFENSE'

Sources who sat in on the President's political strategy sessions last year say he still took the Chotiner approach. He spoke vigorously of his early political frays as "rock-'em, sock-'em campaigns." He believed that in politics, as in war, the best plan was an offense.

But most of all, they recall, he relished political intrigue. The man they knew to be warm and compassionate, even shy and sensitive, would chortle over the prospect of undoing a political rival. He was never happier than when he was scoring against the liberals who have always fought him.

A former member of the Nixon cabinet told us about watching the President go through the pantomime of plunging an imaginary knife into an apponent. "After you get the knife in," said the President gleefully, "you twist it." And he twisted his wrist to illustrate.

Our sources say the President ordered an espionage-sabotoge effort in 1971 after Maine's Sen. Ed. Muskie, then the Democratic front runner, began to pass him in the Presidental polls. The original purpose, they say, was to undercut Muskie. Another early objective was to push Alabama's Gov. George Wallace and South Dakota's Sen. George McGovern, whom the President believed would be the easiest Democrats for him to beat.

HALDEMAN'S ORDERS

The instructions setting up the espionage- sabotage mission, say our sources, were issued through the President's chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman. He had direct authority over Dwight Chapin, the President's appointments secretary, who routed money to Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, to help finance the sabotage campaign. Kalmbach admitted to FBI agents that he had paid up to $40,000 to Donald Segretti who allegedly headed up the sabotage effort.

We would like to believe the President has "nothing to hide." We have been almost eager to blame the whole sordid mess upon his underlings. But we can no longer ignore the President'S personal responsibility for the developments that led up to the Watergate law violations.

--ANOTHER LIE?--

The embattled L. Patrick Gray, seeking Senate confirmation to become permanent FBI director, testified that White House counsel John W. Dean III "probably lied" to FBI agents when he claimed not to know whether Watergate figure Howard Hunt had a White House office.

For three days earlier, Dean had ordered two of his deputies to search Hunt'S office in room 338 of the White House annex known as the old Executive Office Building.

Now Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., has uncovered evidence that Dean "probably lied" to Comptroller General Elmer Staats about the number of foreign service officers working for the White House. While claiming to cut back his White House staff, President Nixon has secretly employed people whose names are listed on the payrolls of other government agencies.

The General Accounting Office, seeking the true size of the White House staff, requested a list of people detailed to the White House from other government departments. On January 15, Dean furnished a list which included only three foreign service officers.

Burton painstakingly went through the State Department's "Foreign Service List" and found seven other foreign service officers assigned to the White House in October 1972. Of these, six were still working at the White House last month.

Cason's assistant, John Ketchum, and House Speaker pro tem, Richard DeCoster, D-Canton, attended a luncheon meeting of state information officers Thursday where Blomgren discussed the new system.

At least one information officer is delighted with the new system. He said the Missouri Information Service can do all the routine jobs, and he will continue to take major announcements directly to reporters.

ASSEMBLY TROUBLE

In the soviet zone of Berlin a German worked in a plant which manufactured a variety of small parts which, when shipped back to Russia, were supposed to be assembled into baby carriages. He decided to steal enough parts to make his own baby carriage.

A few weeks later a friend who was aware of his purpose inquired how the project has progressed.

"I got all the parts," the worker replied, "but, you know, no matter how I put them together, they always come out a machine gun."

There is very little difference in people, says Clement Stone, but that little difference makes a big difference. The little difference is attitude. The big difference is whether it is postive or negative.

Nowhere is this principle better illustrated than in the story of the young bride from the East who, during the last war, followed her husband to an Army camp on the edge of the desert in California. Living conditions were primitive at best, and he had advised against it, but she wanted to be with him.

The only housing they could find was a rundown shack near an Indian village. The heat was unbearable in the daytime— 115 degrees in the shade. The wind blew constantly, spreading dust and sand all over everything. The days were long and boring. Her only neighbors were the Indians, none of whom spoke English.

When her husband was ordered into the desert for two weeks of maneuvers, loneliness and the wretched living conditions got the best of her. She wrote to her mother that she was coming home — she just couldn't take any more. In a short time she received a reply which included these two lines:

Two men looked out from prison bars,

One saw mud, the other saw the stars.

She read the lines over and over and began to feel ashamed of herself. And she didn't really want to leave her husband. All right, she'd look for the stars.

In the following days she set out to make friends with the Indians. She asked them to teach her weaving and pottery. At first they were distant, but as soon as they sensed her interest was genuine they returned her friendship. She became fascinated with their culture, history — everything about them.

She began to study the desert as well, and soon it, too, changed from a desolate, forbidding place to a marvelous thing of beauty. She had her mother send her books. She studied the forms of the cacti, the yuccas and the Josha trees. She collected sea shells that had been left there three millions of years ago when the sands had been an ocean floor. Later, she became such an export on the area she wrote a book about it.

What had changed? Not the desert; not the Indians. Simply by changing her own attitude she had transformed a miserable experience into a highly rewarding one.

LOOK AT U.S. DEFENSE HISTORY

Defense spending during the current fiscal year 1973 is the lowest, in real terms, of any time since fiscal year 1951. That year was the climax of the successful drive by leftists after World War II to dismantle U.S. military power. The result was open aggression by communists in several areas of the world, notably in the invasion of South Korea by Red Chinese and North Korean Red forces.

Long after defense spending by the U.S. fell behind give-aways to foreign and domestic socialist causes and leaders, the opinion- molders in the national media and in government and education were falsely spreading the notion that more than half our tax money was "wasted" on defense against the "non-existent" danger of communism.

Spending on social and welfare programs passed defense spending even while we were fighting a desperate war, if undeclared, against Red-trained and supplied armies invading Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam, all in violation of solemn treaties signed by the communist governments involved.

History proves that tyrants and dictators are emboldened to attack when free people lower their guard and give the false impression that they are unwilling or unable to fight. If we don't change our present course of wasting more taxes on impossible and improper social schemes while cutting real defense spending and research, we will suffer the consequences.

The left- siders would like that, so it is up to the constructive, patriotic citizens to see that defense of the nation comes first in federal spending, while the states and local governments handle the essential social functions. Your voice is needed to insure the survival of our Republic and the profit- motive system which enabled it to become the best and strongest nation on earth. HLH

Global Strikes:
Union Chiefs Have Own Powerful Multinationals
By Victor Riesel

NEW YROK-- As predicted here frequently, "multinational" action has become a household phrase-- always with a James Bond, man from U.N.C.L.E. touch. But the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. or any other major corporation has no monopoly on swift, quiet trips crisscrossing the world or on efforts to help governments and forces friendly to themselves or to the U.S.

But more about all that soon enough. Should anyone want a bit of multinational action, we can start with the arrival in Paris the other day of a springy black- haired, ex-boxer, ex- Marine Pacific theater combat private, circa World War II.

Mission known. He is Akron, Ohio's Peter Bommarito, president of the United Rubber Workers (URW) and an AFL— CIO vice president. His union now is tangling--- or tangoing--- with the Big Four Rubber companies--- Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and Uniroyal. And there's the General Tire and Rubber Co.--- a mighty good sized conglomerate itself.

They're all multinational. So Bommarito is in Paris today for a series of conferences with a powerful multinational labor conglomerate virtually unknown in the U.S.

I remember its leader well--- Charles (Chip) Levinson, always to me a mysterious continent- hopping multinational himself. I've crisscrossed his path in a dozen European capitals. Now he's secretary general of the International Federation of Chemical Workers' and General Workers' Unions (ICF). It's based in that most unproletarian of cities, Geneva, Switzerland. Chip says his federation (ICF) represents 4 million members of 70 industrial unions in 60 nations. This sounds multinational enough.

Early this February Chip Levinson flew to Cincinnati, Ohio. There he laid it on the line in true multinational oratory. His worldwide federation was ready. It could mobilize against any of the Big Four rubber corporations anytime the URW called for aid--- for after all the union is one of its affiliates and Peter Bommariot is an Executive Committee member.

"We can now deal with multinationals on their own boundary- less terms. If they attempt to squelch American strikers by increasing production overseas, we will halt overtime and check stockpiles at their foreign sources."

This is University of Paris, Ph.D. in economics militancy. The chemical workers' federation was watching the American rubber industry's collective bargaining. And, said Chip, "world councils" now are being organized among international unions of the Big Four rubber companies.

And these "councils," one for each of the Big Four American rubber companies with properties across the world, could hit such rubber companies on four continents if the American union strikes the parent firms in the U.S. during the current negotiations.

Since Peter Bommarito's strategy has been--- and may yet be--- to call for striking one of the rubber firms, it can be presumed that Chip Levinson's federation (ICF) might try to cripple that firm's plants everywhere. It would not be the first such international action.

Nothing James Bondish about this. There's just been mighty little reporting on what insiders in this business call "International Trade Secretariats"--- ITS for short. This column has been reporting on such global unionism for some years now.

There are units, Geneva-based councils, in many industries--- auto and, of course, in electrical and electronics.

They are led by European ideologues generally. Most of them are officered by Social Democrats, or militant Socialists such as the chief of the 11 million- member (in 65 nations) International Metalworkers' Federation (IMF)--- a Swedish bitter critic of the U.S.--- general secretary Ivar Noren.

Part of the IMF is the Committee on Multinational Electrical and Electronic Companies. The first world congress of the "General Electric (GE) Working Group" of that committee met April 18, 1969, in Bogota, Colombia. Its most recent session was here the other week at the Barbizon Plaza hotel down the street from the Essex House where the GE— IUE negotiations got under way.

Chairing the meeting of some 48 representatives of GE employes in plants around the world were Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and a national AFL— CIO vice president; Ricardo Otero of the Argentine delegation; Noren, and IMF assistant secretary general Dan Benedict, a reasonable facsimile of Chip Levinson though Dan once worked at the GE plant in Lynn, Mass.

At this session here (March 22) Benedict's words were much like Levinson's. Benedict said GE plants across the world would not work overtime, etc., if Jennings's union needed hlep.

Except for the multinational Geneva- based labor men, relations between Bommarito and the rubber industry and Jennings and GE appear quite calm-- and "optimistic."

There appears to be little need for those European- based multinational proletarian catalysts using capitalism as a whipping boy.

Rep. Steven Symms of Idaho charges that, "For the past several years mail service in the United States has grown steadily worse. It seems that the Postal Service is being strangled by its own bureaucracy. I would like to call your attention to the laws prohibiting the carriage of first- class letters by private agencies. These laws are not only a violation of the spirit of the free enterprise system, but they are hindering the efficient delivery of mail since it has been demonstrated that private carriers can provide faster service at lower cost than the Federal Postal Service is able to provide. Therefore, I am introducing a bill to repeal certain provisions of the law relating to private carriage of letters."

INTERESTED PARTIES ASK OF NEW SERVICE CONTROL OF INFORMATION?

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond's Administration has created the Missouri Information Service. Legislators, reporters and public information officers in state agencies are asking: "Will it become government control of information?"

Bruce Blomgren, director of the Missouri Information Service in the Office of Administration, says no.

"We hope to increase the flow of information," Blomgren said.

So far the information service has taken control of reproducing and distributing news releases for 10 state agencies with plans to include more.

Blomgren says his department will not screen news or change the contest of news releases from state agencies.

Asked whether his department would distribute news releases critical of the Bond administration, Blomgren said, "We'll cross that bridge when we come to it.

"I don't think we would be involved," Blomgren said. He believes state agencies in the executive branch would not use the Missouri Information Service to criticize Bond.

"A director critical of the governor would go to the press directly and not through us," Blomgren said.

Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, president pro tem of the Senate, said he has information which he can substantiate that news releases from one state agency have been censored by the Missouri Information Service.

"There isn't anything coming out of these state agencies that doesn't agree with Kit (Bond)," Cason said.

He would not give a specific example.

Both the Senate and the House recently hired information officers independent of the information service.

Bond said Cason's charge of censorship was not true. "That's unfortunate. It has no basis," Bond said.

Jacob H. Wolf, Bond's communication assistant, said he could not comment on Cason's charge without specific facts.

Wolf, a former reporter for the St. Louis Post- Dispatch, said he has received no complaints from newsmen.

Several state agency information officers say they fear the control of information but none had any proof that it has happened.

Blomgren attributes the fear of censorship, in part, to suspicion of the new system. Blomgren also said some information positions now vacant will not be filled, and some jobs will be eliminated under the coordinated plan.

Bond said the Missouri Information Service was created to provide people with more information about their state government.

"The information is there. We're doing everything we can to get it to the people," Bond said.

So far, more news about state government has been given to the capitol press corps, reporters say.

The prevailing fear among several veteran reporters is that eventually state agencies will become isolated from the press.

Wolf said newsmen will always be free to pursue any release of information through the information service by talking directly to agency directors or employes.

"If it doesn't work, we'll be the first to admit it," Wolfe said. "But it has worked in other states."

Wolf referred to the Illinois News Service where Blomgren worked before coming to Missouri.

Besides press releases, the Missouri Information Service provides tape recorded messages allowing radio and television stations to call and record the voice of the state official reading part of the news release.

Blomgren said so far the recorded message available 24-hours - a day has been successful. He said a counter installed on the recorder last week showed as many as 75 calls a day.

Blomgren cites cost savings and coordination of existing public information talent as two advantages to the system.

One information officer complained that the Missouri Information Service has edited releases. Both Blomgren and Wolfe said errors will be corrected but the context of news releases will not be changed.

Blomgren said state agencies can request the service but nobody will force use of it.

Apparently the legislature is also watching the service.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Nothing to Hide?

WASHINGTON — Washington is buzzing about President Nixon's possible role in the Watergate case. Did he authorize the political espionage and sabotage? Was he aware of the bread-in and bugging of Democratic party headquarters? What is he trying to hide by ordering subordinates not to answer Senate questions about Watergate?

The President tried to answer the whispers last week by letting Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott pass on to the press a private remark. "Hugh," the GOP leader quoted the President as telling him, "I have nothing to hide. The White House has nothing to hide. I repeat, we have nothing to hide."

Our own White House sources say the President certainly did not authorize anyone to send a burglary-bugging team into the Democratic lair. But they acknowledge that he approved the overall espionage- sabatoge operation.

Nixon grew up in the Murray Chotiner school of politics. "Find out everything there is to know about the opposition candidate," Chotiner used to tell his political charges. "Some protest we don't want to run that kind of campaign. They say they want to run a constructive campaign and point out the merits of our own candidacy. I say to you in all sincerity that if you do not deflate the opposition candidate before your own campaign gets started, the odds are you are going to be doomed to defeat."

'BE ON OFFENSE'

Sources who sat in on the President's political strategy sessions last year say he still took the Chotiner approach. He spoke vigorously of his early political frays as "rock-'em, sock-'em campaigns." He believed that in politics, as in war, the best plan was an offense.

But most of all, they recall, he relished political intrigue. The man they knew to be warm and compassionate, even shy and sensitive, would chortle over the prospect of undoing a political rival. He was never happier than when he was scoring against the liberals who have always fought him.

A former member of the Nixon cabinet told us about watching the President go through the pantomime of plunging an imaginary knife into an apponent. "After you get the knife in," said the President gleefully, "you twist it." And he twisted his wrist to illustrate.

Our sources say the President ordered an espionage-sabotoge effort in 1971 after Maine's Sen. Ed. Muskie, then the Democratic front runner, began to pass him in the Presidental polls. The original purpose, they say, was to undercut Muskie. Another early objective was to push Alabama's Gov. George Wallace and South Dakota's Sen. George McGovern, whom the President believed would be the easiest Democrats for him to beat.

HALDEMAN'S ORDERS

The instructions setting up the espionage- sabotage mission, say our sources, were issued through the President's chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman. He had direct authority over Dwight Chapin, the President's appointments secretary, who routed money to Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, to help finance the sabotage campaign. Kalmbach admitted to FBI agents that he had paid up to $40,000 to Donald Segretti who allegedly headed up the sabotage effort.

We would like to believe the President has "nothing to hide." We have been almost eager to blame the whole sordid mess upon his underlings. But we can no longer ignore the President'S personal responsibility for the developments that led up to the Watergate law violations.

--ANOTHER LIE?--

The embattled L. Patrick Gray, seeking Senate confirmation to become permanent FBI director, testified that White House counsel John W. Dean III "probably lied" to FBI agents when he claimed not to know whether Watergate figure Howard Hunt had a White House office.

For three days earlier, Dean had ordered two of his deputies to search Hunt'S office in room 338 of the White House annex known as the old Executive Office Building.

Now Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., has uncovered evidence that Dean "probably lied" to Comptroller General Elmer Staats about the number of foreign service officers working for the White House. While claiming to cut back his White House staff, President Nixon has secretly employed people whose names are listed on the payrolls of other government agencies.

The General Accounting Office, seeking the true size of the White House staff, requested a list of people detailed to the White House from other government departments. On January 15, Dean furnished a list which included only three foreign service officers.

Burton painstakingly went through the State Department's "Foreign Service List" and found seven other foreign service officers assigned to the White House in October 1972. Of these, six were still working at the White House last month.

Cason's assistant, John Ketchum, and House Speaker pro tem, Richard DeCoster, D-Canton, attended a luncheon meeting of state information officers Thursday where Biomgren discussed the new system.

At least one information officer is delighted with the new system. He said the Missouri Information Service can do all the routine jobs, and he will continue to take major announcements directly to reporters.

ASSEMBLY TROUBLE

In the soviet zone of Berlin a German worked in a plant which manufactured a variety of small parts which, when shipped back to Russia, were supposed to be assembled into baby carriages. He decided to steal enough parts to make his own baby carriage.

A few weeks later a friend who was aware of his purpose inquired how the project has progressed.

"I got all the parts," the worker replied, "but, you know, no matter how I put them together, they always come out a machine gun."

There is very little difference in people, says Clement Stone, but that little difference makes a big difference. The little difference is attitude. The big difference is whether it is postive or negative.

Nowhere is this principle better illustrated than in the story of the young bride from the East who, during the last war, followed her husband to an Army camp on the edge of the desert in California. Living conditions were primitive at best, and he had advised against it, but she wanted to be with him.

The only housing they could find was a rundown shack near an Indian village. The heat was unbearable in the daytime— 115 degrees in the shade. The wind blew constantly, spreading dust and sand all over everything. The days were long and boring. Her only neighbors were the Indians, none of whom spoke English.

When her husband was ordered into the desert for two weeks of maneuvers, loneliness and the wretched living conditions got the best of her. She wrote to her mother that she was coming home — she just couldn't take any more. In a short time she received a reply which included these two lines:

Two men looked out from prison bars,

One saw mud, the other saw the stars.

She read the lines over and over and began to feel ashamed of herself. And she didn't really want to leave her husband. All right, she'd look for the stars.

In the following days she set out to make friends with the Indians. She asked them to teach her weaving and pottery. At first they were distant, but as soon as they sensed her interest was genuine they returned her friendship. She became fascinated with their culture, history — everything about them.

She began to study the desert as well, and soon it, too, changed from a desolate, forbidding place to a marvelous thing of beauty. She had her mother send her books. She studied the forms of the cacti, the yuccas and the Josha trees. She collected sea shells that had been left there three millions of years ago when the sands had been an ocean floor. Later, she became such an export on the area she wrote a book about it.

What had changed? Not the desert; not the Indians. Simply by changing her own attitude she had transformed a miserable experience into a highly rewarding one.

LOOK AT U.S.
DEFENSE HISTORY

Defense spending during the current fiscal year 1973 is the lowest, in real terms, of any time since fiscal year 1951. That year was the climax of the successful drive by leftists after World War II to dismantle U.S. military power. The result was open aggression by communists in several areas of the world, notably in the invasion of South Korea by Red Chinese and North Korean Red forces.

Long after defense spending by the U.S. fell behind give-aways to foreign and domestic socialist causes and leaders, the opinion- molders in the national media and in government and education were falsely spreading the notion that more than half our tax money was "wasted" on defense against the "non-existent" danger of communism.

Spending on social and welfare programs passed defense spending even while we were fighting a desperate war, if undeclared, against Red-trained and supplied armies invading Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam, all in violation of solemn treaties signed by the communist governments involved.

History proves that tyrants and dictators are emboldened to attack when free people lower their guard and give the false impression that they are unwilling or unable to fight. If we don't change our present course of wasting more taxes on impossible and improper social schemes while cutting real defense spending and research, we will suffer the consequences.

The left- siders would like that, so it is up to the constructive, patriotic citizens to see that defense of the nation comes first in federal spending, while the states and local governments handle the essential social functions. Your voice is needed to insure the survival of our Republic and the profit- motive system which enabled it to become the best and strongest nation on earth. HLH

Global Strikes:
Union Chiefs Have Own Powerful Multinationals

By Victor Riesel

NEW YROK-- As predicted here frequently, "multinational" action has become a household phrase-- always with a James Bond, man from U.N.C.L.E. touch. But the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. or any other major corporation has no monopoly on swift, quiet trips crisscrossing the world or on efforts to help governments and forces friendly to themselves or to the U.S.

But more about all that soon enough. Should anyone want a bit of multinational action, we can start with the arrival in Paris the other day of a springy black- haired, ex-boxer, ex- Marine Pacific theater combat private, circa World War II.

Mission known. He is Akron, Ohio's Peter Bommarito, president of the United Rubber Workers (URW) and an AFL— CIO vice president. His union now is tangling--- or tangoing--- with the Big Four Rubber companies--- Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and Uniroyal. And there's the General Tire and Rubber Co.--- a mighty good sized conglomerate itself.

They're all multinational. So Bommarito is in Paris today for a series of conferences with a powerful multinational labor conglomerate virtually unknown in the U.S.

I remember its leader well--- Charles (Chip) Levinson, always to me a mysterious continent- hopping multinational himself. I've crisscrossed his path in a dozen European capitals. Now he's secretary general of the International Federation of Chemical Workers' and General Workers' Unions (ICF). It's based in that most unproletarian of cities, Geneva, Switzerland. Chip says his federation (ICF) represents 4 million members of 70 industrial unions in 60 nations. This sounds multinational enough.

Early this February Chip Levinson flew to Cincinnati, Ohio. There he laid it on the line in true multinational oratory. His worldwide federation was ready. It could mobilize against any of the Big Four rubber corporations anytime the URW called for aid--- for after all the union is one of its affiliates and Peter Bommariot is an Executive Committee member.

"We can now deal with multinationals on their own boundary- less terms. If they attempt to squelch American strikers by increasing production overseas, we will halt overtime and check stockpiles at their foreign sources."

This is University of Paris, Ph.D. in economics militancy. The chemical workers' federation was watching the American rubber industry's collective bargaining. And, said Chip, "world councils" now are being organized among international unions of the Big Four rubber companies.

And these "councils," one for each of the Big Four American rubber companies with properties across the world, could hit such rubber companies on four continents if the American union strikes the parent firms in the U.S. during the current negotiations.

Since Peter Bommarito's strategy has been--- and may yet be--- to call for striking one of the rubber firms, it can be presumed that Chip Levinson's federation (ICF) might try to cripple that firm's plants everywhere. It would not be the first such international action.

Nothing James Bondish about this. There's just been mighty little reporting on what insiders in this business call "International Trade Secretariats"--- ITS for short. This column has been reporting on such global unionism for some years now.

There are units, Geneva-based councils, in many industries--- auto and, of course, in electrical and electronics.

They are led by European ideologues generally. Most of them are officered by Social Democrats, or militant Socialists such as the chief of the 11 million- member (in 65 nations) International Metalworkers' Federation (IMF)--- a Swedish bitter critic of the U.S.--- general secretary Ivar Noren.

Part of the IMF is the Committee on Multinational Electrical and Electronic Companies. The first world congress of the "General Electric (GE) Working Group" of that committee met April 18, 1969, in Bogota, Colombia. Its most recent session was here the other week at the Barbizon Plaza hotel down the street from the Essex House where the GE— IUE negotiations got under way.

Chairing the meeting of some 48 representatives of GE employes in plants around the world were Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE) and a national AFL— CIO vice president; Ricardo Otero of the Argentine delegation; Noren, and IMF assistant secretary general Dan Benedict, a reasonable facsimile of Chip Levinson though Dan once worked at the GE plant in Lynn, Mass.

At this session here (March 22) Benedict's words were much like Levinson's. Benedict said GE plants across the world would not work overtime, etc., if Jennings's union needed hlep.

Except for the multinational Geneva- based labor men, relations between Bommarito and the rubber industry and Jennings and GE appear quite calm-- and "optimistic."

There appears to be little need for those European- based multinational proletarian catalysts using capitalism as a whipping boy.

What's the law?

The case of the talented husband

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Alice, being a very clever woman, managed to build up a big business. And while she manipulated, her husband, Bill, juggled. But what he juggled was the funds in his wife's company. What's more, he did it with such finesse that, over the years, he was able to embezzle enough money to choke the proverbial horse without his wife suspecting a thing. It wasn't Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus that discovered his talents as a juggler, however, it was the Internal Revenue Service.

Flabbergasted when informed of her husband's skulduggery, Alice was even more flabbergasted when the IRS informed her that she had to pay the income taxes due on the pilfered funds.

"Since embezzled funds are taxable," she was told, "and since your husband is flatter than last year's souffle, you've got to make the payment. By signing a joint income tax return with him, you became equally responsible for unpaid taxes."

"You've got to be a booby without a hatch," was Alice's answer. "Aside from the fact I didn't know the money was taken, what you're saying is that you want me to pay income taxes on money that was stolen from me. Now, I ask you, isn't that absurd?"

The IRS didn't think so, however, and the matter ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Alice pay income taxes on the funds embezzled by her talented husband?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that when a person signs a joint income tax return, he becomes individually and jointly responsible for all taxes due under the tax return, whether fully reported or not. Only when the person's signature is obtained by fraud, coercion, etc., will he be excused. And in this case, concluded the judge, while he was sympathetic to Alice, her husband had not tricked or defrauded her into signing the joint return.

The Sikeston Chamber of Commerce had an interesting meeting Monday and a large number of members attended. J.S. Kevil reported the result of his recent interview with President Kurn of the Frisco railroad in regard to a new station at Sikeston. He said that he was told that Sikeston was on the list of cities to secure new stations next year and, if possible, the new station would be built this year.

The 10 pupils making the highest average grade in the seventh grade for the quarter just ended in their relative position were as follows: Dorothy Walker, Ruby Hitt, Edna Mount, Lela Hargrove, Mildred Arbaugh, Mildred Howden, Edith Carter, Mary Baker, Grace Decker and Walter Weekley.

Those in the sixth grade having the same distinctions were: Frances Green, Early Keller, Johnny Welsh, Marie Marshall, William Patterson, Robert Dempster, Louis C. Erdmanm jr., Margaret Baker, Dale Dye and Beryle Boardman.

Upper 10 in the eighth grade: Elizabeth Stallcup, Bobby Wilbur, Barbara Beck, Lena Matthers, Nell Yanson, Elmer Erdmann, Spencer Black, Rowland Fitts, Lavina Boardman, and Anna Golda Howell.

What's the law?

The case of the talented husband

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Alice, being a very clever woman, managed to build up a big business. And while she manipulated, her husband, Bill, juggled. But what he juggled was the funds in his wife's company. What's more, he did it with such finesse that, over the years, he was able to embezzle enough money to choke the proverbial horse without his wife suspecting a thing. It wasn't Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus that discovered his talents as a juggler, however, it was the Internal Revenue Service.

Flabbergasted when informed of her husband's skulduggery, Alice was even more flabbergasted when the IRS informed her that she had to pay the income taxes due on the pilfered funds.

"Since embezzled funds are taxable," she was told, "and since your husband is flatter than last year's souffle, you've got to make the payment. By signing a joint income tax return with him, you became equally responsible for unpaid taxes."

"You've got to be a booby without a hatch," was Alice's answer. "Aside from the fact I didn't know the money was taken, what you're saying is that you want me to pay income taxes on money that was stolen from me. Now, I ask you, isn't that absurd?"

The IRS didn't think so, however, and the matter ended up in court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Alice pay income taxes on the funds embezzled by her talented husband?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that when a person signs a joint income tax return, he becomes individually and jointly responsible for all taxes due under the tax return, whether fully reported or not. Only when the person's signature is obtained by fraud, coercion, etc., will he be excused. And in this case, concluded the judge, while he was sympathetic to Alice, her husband had not tricked or defrauded her into signing the joint return.

Ann Landers

'Laughter is universal language'

Dear Ann Landers: The comment from Dr. Fry who said laughter is essential to mental health reminded me that it's time I wrote to Ann Landers to share something in return for the many bons mots I have read in her column.

Some years ago I married the man of my dreams. We met as teachers in Sunday school and dated for two years. Soon after marriage I discovered he was an incurable skirt- chaser and a religious fanatic.

I consulted a long- time family physician who suggested that I get legal and psychological help, which I did at once. The therapist asked me to repeat the details of my husband's escapades which had hurt me deeply. As I recounted incident after incident he pointed out some rather amusing aspects of my husband's philandering. The ducking around corners and the manner in which I caught him several times had a Mack Sennett comedy quality nothing short of hilarious.

I suddenly realized that I had been too distraught to see the humor in anything. Finally the counselor said, "Look for the funny side. It's there no matter how grim the problem may seem at the moment. No one can survive without a sense of humor."

When I returned to my physician for a checkup he announced, "I'm not concerned about you anymore. You'll make it now. You can laugh when you talk about the agony of the past. This is the measure of good mental health."

So please, Ann Landers, prescribe laughter for the crushed spirit and the heavy heart. It worked for me and I'm sure it can work for others.--- Smiling Through

Dear Smiling: I have prescribed it and I shall continue to do so. Humor is a superb leveling agent. It deflates the pompous, disarms the angry, and it can place a dangerously overblown situation into proper perspective. Laughter is the universal language understood by people everywhere. I love it!

Dear Ann Landers: I am not married. I have a sweetheart. He has had a wife for 28 years (I hesitate to call it a marriage). His children will soon be teen- agers. For some reason this wonderful person has found everything he needs in me.

My lover is honorable, so honorable that he told me from the beginning that he will never divorce his wife. He is a hard worker, a fine provider and a devoted father to his four children. I work to support my own three daughters and would never ask him for anything, so you see I am not a "kept woman."

I am grateful for the new meaning this man has brought to my life and that is enough for me. He fills my emotional needs and I do the same for him. I would be content to go on this way for the rest of my life but my best friend says I am foolish to settle for this arrangement. What do you say, Ann Landers?--- Trifling In Tulsa

Dear Tulsa: I say the "arrangement" is dynamite and the explosion will come when (a) his wife finds out about you, or (b) his children catch on, or (c) the bloom is off the romance and he meets someone who excites him as you did when your love was new, or (d) you get fed up with living in the shadows, or (e) you look in the mirror and notice that the crow's feet are beginning to look like elephant tracks. Suddenly you will realize you've thrown away too many years.

Confidential to Save Me: I can't. You must save yourself. Start by getting back in school at once. Without that diploma you're a gone gosling. Write to me again in three months and let me know how you're doing.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "necking And Petting-- What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Sikeston man has five celebrations in one day

By PAT GROJEAN

Five celebrations in one day makes a big day for anyone, especailly someone in the hospital. But Raymond Lansing of 611 Vernon St. celebrated five anniversaries Sunday from his hospital room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

On March 25, 1973, Lansing was 78 years old, he had been married 56 years, he had been a Mason for 50 years and a master Mason for 49 years, he had joined the Methodist Church 26 years ago and his first grandchild and been christened 26 years ago. Each event occurred on March 25.

On Lansing's 22nd birthday, he married Bessie Ogle of Collinsville, Ill., in Collinsville. The first thing Lansing did Sunday morning was to call his wife at 7:30 to wish her a happy anniversary.

This is only the second time Lansing has been in the hospital in his life, and the other time only tests were taken. He is now sprightly and perky after an operation, ready to go home and ready to go turkey hunting in April. He entered the hospital March 15 and is due to go home this week.

Lansing retired a few years ago from farming 80 acres at Campbell. Until he was 65 he had farmed 400 acres, and then he "retired" to the 80- acre farm.

He has lived in Collinsville, Ill., Helena, Ark., Blytheville, Ark., and Advance, Puxico, Campbell and now Sikeston in Missouri.

Lansing's father was born in Switzerland and came to the United States when he was four or five with his family. His grandfather was killed during the Civil War while fighting as a Union soldier.

During the years, Lansing has held many jobs. He worked in a coal mine in Collinsville for six years. Next, he worked for Brinks Express Company and was paymaster his last four years. While working for Brinks as paymaster, Lansing was in charge of taking payrolls to the coal mines during the Depression. He said they were followed three times, but never held up.

The main rule of Brinks Company was never to stop along the road, no matter what was in the road. Lansing said that even if a state patrolmen was blocking the road, they had to go right through without stopping.

Lansing also owned a sawmill for eight years in Blytheville. After the sawmilling, he farmed until he retired.

Lansing has a brother who is 93 and three sisters whose ages are 86, 75 and 73. Vergie, the 75- year- old sister lives in Collinsville and is a beautician, still working.

Lansing has a son, Norvell Lansing, who lives in Malden and works in construction, and two daughters.

Lansing's daughter, Mrs. H. C. Walters, and her husband live in Sikeston. Mrs. Walters is a counselor at Sikeston Junior High School and Walters teaches at the high school. Two of their children also teach.

Lansing does not like living in town; he misses nature. He loves to hunt any kind of game and fish and is looking forward to turkey season in April. Lansing does keep in contact with nature though while living in town by feeding the squirrels in his back yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Lansing have become known affectionately by family and friends as Daddy Ray and Lannie.

Celebrations held

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lansing celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary Sunday in Lansing's hospital room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Sunday was also Lansing's 78th birthday, his 50th year as a Mason, his 26th year since joining the church and 26 years since his first grandchild was christened. All of these events happened on March 25 throughout the years.

BIRTHS

WILLIS — Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Willis of St. Louis are parents of a daughter born March 22 at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. She weighed five pounds eight ounces and has been named Stephanie St. John.

Mrs. Willis is the former Janice St. John, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward St. John of Sulphur Springs.

Willis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Willis of Sikeston.

BROWN — Mr. and Mrs. Dewayne Brown of Cape Girardeau are parents of their second child and second son, born at 11:59 p.m. March 21 at Southeast Missouri Hospital in Cape Girardeau. He weighed eight pounds two ounces and has been named Thomas Brian.

Mrs. Brown is the former Sandra Kay Lufcy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lufcy of Cape Girardeau.

Brown is a truck driver for Sam Tanksley Trucking and is the son of Mrs. Frances Brown of Sikeston.

Dear Ann Landers: The comment from Dr. Fry who said laughter is essential to mental health reminded me that it's time I wrote to Ann Landers to share something in return for the many bons mots I have read in her column.

Some years ago I married the man of my dreams. We met as teachers in Sunday school and dated for two years. Soon after marriage I discovered he was an incurable skirt- chaser and a religious fanatic.

I consulted a long- time family physician who suggested that I get legal and psychological help, which I did at once. The therapist asked me to repeat the details of my husband's escapades which had hurt me deeply. As I recounted incident after incident he pointed out some rather amusing aspects of my husband's philandering. The ducking around corners and the manner in which I caught him several times had a Mack Sennett comedy quality nothing short of hilarious.

I suddenly realized that I had been too distraught to see the humor in anything. Finally the counselor said, "Look for the funny side. It's there no matter how grim the problem may seem at the moment. No one can survive without a sense of humor."

When I returned to my physician for a checkup he announced, "I'm not concerned about you anymore. You'll make it now. You can laugh when you talk about the agony of the past. This is the measure of good mental health."

So please, Ann Landers, prescribe laughter for the crushed spirit and the heavy heart. It worked for me and I'm sure it can work for others.--- Smiling Through

Dear Smiling: I have prescribed it and I shall continue to do so. Humor is a superb leveling agent. It deflates the pompous, disarms the angry, and it can place a dangerously overblown situation into proper perspective. Laughter is the universal language understood by people everywhere. I love it!

Dear Ann Landers: I am not married. I have a sweetheart. He has had a wife for 28 years (I hestitate to call it a marriage). His children will soon be teen- agers. For some reason this wonderful person has found everything he needs in me.

My lover is honorable, so honorable that he told me from the beginning that he will never divorce his wife. He is a hard worker, a fine provider and a devoted father to his four children. I work to support my own three daughters and would never ask him for anything, so you see I am not a "kept woman."

I am grateful for the new meaning this man has brought to my life and that is enough for me. He fills my emotional needs and I do the same for him. I would be content to go on this way for the rest of my life but my best friend says I am foolish to settle for this arrangement. What do you say, Ann Landers?--- Trifling In Tulsa

Dear Tulsa: I say the "arrangement" is dynamite and the explosion will come when (a) his wife finds out about you, or (b) his children catch on, or (c) the bloom is off the romance and he meets someone who excites him as you did when your love was new, or (d) you get fed up with living in the shadows, or (e) you look in the mirror and notice that the crow's feet are beginning to look like elephant tracks. Suddenly you will realize you've thrown away too many years.

Confidential to Save Me: I can't. You must save yourself. Start by getting back in school at once. Without that diploma you're a gone gosling. Write to me again in three months and let me know how you're doing.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "necking And Petting-- What Are The Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self- addressed envelope.

Sikeston man has five celebrations in one day

By PAT GROJEAN

Five celebrations in one day makes a big day for anyone, especailly someone in the hospital. But Raymond Lansing of 611 Vernon St. celebrated five anniversaries Sunday from his hospital room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

On March 25, 1973, Lansing was 78 years old, he had been married 56 years, he had been a Mason for 50 years and a master Mason for 49 years, he had joined the Methodist Church 26 years ago and his first grandchild and been christened 26 years ago. Each event occurred on March 25.

On Lansing's 22nd birthday, he married Bessie Ogle of Collinsville, Ill., in Collinsville. The first thing Lansing did Sunday morning was to call his wife at 7:30 to wish her a happy anniversary.

This is only the second time Lansing has been in the hospital in his life, and the other time only tests were taken. He is now sprightly and perky after an operation, ready to go home and ready to go turkey hunting in April. He entered the hospital March 15 and is due to go home this week.

Lansing retired a few years ago from farming 80 acres at Campbell. Until he was 65 he had farmed 400 acres, and then he "retired" to the 80- acre farm.

He has lived in Collinsville, Ill., Helena, Ark., Blytheville, Ark., and Advance, Puxico, Campbell and now Sikeston in Missouri.

Lansing's father was born in Switzerland and came to the United States when he was four or five with his family. His grandfather was killed during the Civil War while fighting as a Union soldier.

During the years, Lansing has held many jobs. He worked in a coal mine in Collinsville for six years. Next, he worked for Brinks Express Company and was paymaster his last four years. While working for Brinks as paymaster, Lansing was in charge of taking payrolls to the coal mines during the Depression. He said they were followed three times, but never held up.

The main rule of Brinks Company was never to stop along the road, no matter what was in the road. Lansing said that even if a state patrolmen was blocking the road, they had to go right through without stopping.

Lansing also owned a sawmill for eight years in Blytheville. After the sawmilling, he farmed until he retired.

Lansing has a brother who is 93 and three sisters whose ages are 86, 75 and 73. Vergie, the 75- year- old sister lives in Collinsville and is a beautician, still working.

Lansing has a son, Norvell Lansing, who lives in Malden and works in construction, and two daughters.

Lansing's daughter, Mrs. H. C. Walters, and her husband live in Sikeston. Mrs. Walters is a counselor at Sikeston Junior High School and Walters teaches at the high school. Two of their children also teach.

Lansing does not like living in town; he misses nature. He loves to hunt any kind of game and fish and is looking forward to turkey season in April. Lansing does keep in contact with nature though while living in town by feeding the squirrels in his back yard.

Mr. and Mrs. Lansing have become known affectionately by family and friends as Daddy Ray and Lannie.

Celebrations held

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lansing celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary Sunday in Lansing's hospital room at Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Sunday was also Lansing's 78th birthday, his 50th year as a Mason, his 26th year since joining the church and 26 years since his first grandchild was christened. All of these events happened on March 25 throughout the years.

Mrs. Streeter attends state legistative tour

JEFFERSON CITY-- Mrs. K.M. Streeter of Painton represented Scott County at Farm Bureau's two day legislative tour in the Capitol March 21 and 22. Highlighting the trip were personal duscussion with Sen. Albert Spradling of Cape Girardeau and Rep. Fred DeField of Charleston and C.F. Cline of Sikeston.

Over 100 Missouri legislators and 150 Missouri Farm Bureau members attended the annual legislative banquet.

Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond addressed the dinner group. Acting as spokesman for Farm Bureau members were Missouri Farm Bureau Federation president C.R. Johnston and vice president John Summitt.

The tour was arranged by MFBE policy action director Vince Crane, who said, "The purpose of this annual tour is to provide farmers the opportunity to visit with their elected officials and exchange ideas. Also scheduled are individual sessions covering subjects of prime importance to today's farmer."

Tour attended

Mrs. K. M. Streeter of Painton speakes with Vince Crane, Missouri Farm Bureau Federation policy action director, during a legislative tour in Jefferson City on March 21 and 22. Mrs. Streeter represented Scott County.

Club meets

MATTHEWS — Mrs. William Depro presented a lesson on "Simple Home Plumbing Repairs" to members of the Community Club March 19 at the home of Mrs. W. H. Gilmer Sr., with Mrs. Tom Moore as co-hostess.

Mrs. Depro distributed University of Missouri extension pamphlet C914, "Simple Home Plumbing Repairs", which illustrates the repairs she demonstrated on a leaky faucet. Other simple repairs easily made by the housewife, which are illustrated in the pamphlet, are cleaning faucet screen, repairing toilet flush tanks, drain traps and vents.

Mrs. Lester King presided during the business session. Yearbooks were distributed.

Junior class presents play

MATTHEWS — The junior class of Matthews High School presented a three-act comedy, "Lights Out" Friday in the high school gymnasium.

The play began at a pleasant house party at the Stillwell estate and turned out to be a night filled with creeping figures, ghostly threats and a strange voice in the dark.

The cast included Toni Huffstutler, Pam Mick, Andy Polk, Christy Curtis, Susie York, Hal Mark McDonald, Sherry Johnson, Dwight Latham, Ricky Whiffin, Robin Burch and Allen Danels.

The play was directed by Mr. Don Stephens. Other class members assisting in the production were: Debbie Rudisill, Janet White, Barbara Byerly, Carolyn Burns, Cindi Cole, Martha Essary and Danny Farrenburg.

Brothers battle for bull honors

DENVER, Colo-- Pete and Don Gay of Mesquite, Texas, have at least two things in common-- they are brothers and two of pro rodeo's top bull riders, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

Pete, 21, leads for the 1973 world championship in the event with $7,826, while Don, 19, is second with $6,868.

Don moved into the number two slot over the weekend by adding $940 to his earnings at the Calgary Rodeo Royal, where he took first place in the event.

The two come from what cowboys call a "rodeo family." Their father, Neal, operates the weekly Mesquite Championship rodeos, which host most of the sport's top athletes at one time or another throughout the year.

A generation ago, Neal was also an outstanding rodeo competitor.

Pete was the first to "go down the road" full time two years ago. Last year, Don hit the road after he was graduated from high school, and both qualified for their first National Finals Rodeo last December.

"It was like waiting for Christmas," they said.

In addition to bull riding, both compete occasionally in a second event. For Pete it's bareback riding; Don works the saddle bronc riding.

SHS Netmen win opener

After postponing their 1973 tennis opener with Poplar Bluff until Wednesday due to scheduling problems, the Sikeston netmen battled to come from behind and squeeze by a much- improved Mule squad six matches to five.

With the loss, PBHS ran its record for the young season to one win, one loss, and one tie. Their win was last week over the Cape Central Tigers and the tie match came Tuesday afternoon with Kennett as the two teams were deadlocked 4-4 when darkness set in, stopping play.

The Bulldogs' top three netmen, David Hahs, Brad Buchanan, and Bill Colwick suffered off-days and dropped singles events set to their Bluff opponents.

Bill Lewis, Roy Bowman and Eric Sappenfield evened the team score at three-all as they downed their respective adversaries, Greg Harrison, Dave Williams and David Rhodes in pro sets.

After Gary Whitworth bowed to Tom VanCleve in sudden death play, 11-9, Thom Lemmons trounced his Mule opponent Jim Hogg, 8-0.

In doubles play, Hahs and Buchanan displayed better form as they ripped the PBHS brother team of Rich and Robert Garman, eight games to four. Bowman andSappenfield followed their SHS teammates example as they also knocked off the Steve Cattron - Tim Chronister duo, 8-4.

Colwick and Lewis, the number one doubles team, were set back by York and Williams of Poplar Bluff, 8-4.

Bulldog coach John Heacox gave a couple reasons why the netmen did not fair as well as many have been expected. "This match was the third for Poplar Bluff and the opening match for Sikeston. Having that advantage before being in head- to - head competition does make a difference. We were also a little slow at times which indicates we need to get into better shape for the next match."

In junior varsity action, Sikeston took six matches and tied one of the eight matches played. Five freshman and three sophomores made up the jayvee crew.

Those in the victory column for SHS were Jeff Robey, Marc Eaves, Craig Vogel, Ed Nunnelee, Prince McDougal, and Cuch Medleburg. Tom Hall recorded the stalemate for the Bulldogs.

Thomas hurls no-hitter

CHAFFEE — Big 6-foot- 7 Scott Thomas started the 1973 baseball season off on the right note here Wednesday afternoon as the fireballing righthander pitched a no-hitter in the first outing over the Oran Eagles. Chaffee easily took the Scott Mississippi encounter 11-0 in four and one-half innings.

It was the second win in a row for the Red Devils as coach McConnell's nine edged the Kelly Hawks 2-1 Tuesday afternoon in a conference game at Kelly.

Anderson started on the mound for the Eagles and was jumped on in the bottom of the first inning as Chaffee exploded for six hits and eight runs to put the game away. The Red Devils added three more runs on three hits in the bottom of the fourth.

Thomas fanned 11 batters and walked seven as he warmed up for the 1973 campaign. Chaffee's Dennis Scheeter slapped a double for the games only extra base hit.

John Richbourg, David Little, and David McConnell headed the runs- batted- in department with two each.

Wagner provides PHS punch

PARMA — Coach Mark Rascher's Pirates got their baseball season off on the right foot here Tuesday afternoon by edging the Lilbourn Panthers in a New Madrid county conference tilt, 5-4.

The game turned out to be a battle of homeruns as Wendy Wagner smacked a roundtripper in the third and Tom Maschmeyer and Mitchell Allen connected for LHS circuits.

Lilbourn jumped out in front in the bottom of the first inning, scoring one run on one hit and added another tally in the bottom of the second single safety.

Parma started their offense up in the top of the third as Wagner hit his homer with two mates aboard to give the Pirates 3-2 edge. Parma added insurance runs in the fifth as they went two runs across the plate on three hits and Lilbourn came back to equal the output in the fifth scoring two runs on two hits but trailed 5-4 which turned out to be the final margin of victory as Wagner relieved Thatch to nail down the win.

Thatch was the winning pitcher and Allen took the loss. Parma was outhit by the Panthers 8-5.

Newberry playing golf at SEMS

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Even though they lack an adequate course to practice on, Southeast Missouri State University's golf team has fared quite well in the first two encounters of the spring.

Boasting four returning lettermen, the Tribe opened the season last Thursday by dropping a 10-8 decision to Arkansas State, mainly on the strength of a hole- in- one by ASU's Jamie Pate.

On Saturday the Indian linksters topped three other teams to win the University of Missouri -- Rolla Best Ball Tournament.

The Indians' score of 422 topped the 425 mark of Central Missouri State, the 430 of UMR, and the 439 of Westminster College.

Southeast Missouri State also had the best individual team as Ron Wilcoxson, a sophomore letterman from Kennett, and two- year letterman Mike Burke, a St. Louis junior paired up to finish on top.

The Indians will be in Jackson, Tenn., on Monday (April 2) for a meet with Union University and on Wednesday (April 4) they will be playing on the Terre Du Lac course near Bonne Terre against the University of Missouri -- St. Louis Southwest Missouri State, and Lincoln University.

Discussing the outlook for this season, Coach Carroll Williams said, "We will be a fairly good team, but our biggest problem will be not having a place to play." He explained that the only course in Cape Girardeau available to his team will not be in top condition until after the season is over.

The coach said his team is practicing wherever it can in order to stay in shape.

In addition to Wilcoxson and Burke, the other lettermen on the Indian squad are Mick Lynch, a junior from Dexter, and junior Dave Stiles of Detroit. Both have earned two Indian monograms.

Dave Newberry, a senior from Sikeston, and Cape Girardeau freshman Mike Uhls combine with the four lettermen to round out the top six players.

Among the four remaining team members pushing for a spot in the top six, Ray Langdon of Cape Girardeau is rated by Williams as the biggest threat. The sophomore came out late for the team but has been progressing rapidly, according to the Indian coach.

Rounding out the team are juniors Kevin Arand of Union and Les Oyler of Marissa, Ill., and freshman Dave Crawford of Pinckneyville, Ill.

Brothers battle for bull honors

DENVER, Colo--- Pete and Don Gay of Mesquite, Texas, have at least two things in common-- they are brothers and two of pro rodeo's top bull riders, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

Pete, 21, leads for the 1973 world championship in the event with $7,826, while Don, 19, is second with $6,868.

Don moved into the number two slot over the weekend by adding $940 to his earnings at the Calgary Rodeo Royal, where he took first place in the event.

The two come from what cowboys call a "rodeo family." Their father, Neal, operates the weekly Mesquite Championship rodeos, which host most of the sport's top athletes at one time or another throughout the year.

A generation ago, Neal was also an outstanding rodeo competitor.

Pete was the first to "go down the road" full time two years ago. Last year, Don hit the road after he was graduated from high school, and both qualified for their first National Finals Rodeo last December.

"It was like waiting for Christmas," they said.

In addition to bull riding, both compete occasionally in a second event. For Pete it's bareback riding; Don works the saddle bronc riding.

Although the extra events haven't added substantially to either cowboy's winnings, both are qualified now for the all around standings. Pete is seventh with $7,981, and Don is ninth with $7,219.

Considering their abilities and ages, both will likely be active in the sport for years to come, an association spokesman said.

Discussing the outlook for this season, Coach Carroll Williams said, "We will be a fairly good team, but our biggest problem will be not having a place to play." He explained that the only course in Cape Girardeau available to his team will not be in top condition until after the season is over.

The coach said his team is practicing wherever it can in order to stay in shape.

In addition to Wilcoxson and Burke, the other lettermen on the Indian squad are Mick Lynch, a junior from Dexter, and junior Dave Stiles of Detroit. Both have earned two Indian monograms.

Dave Newberry, a senior from Sikeston, and Cape Girardeau freshman Mike Uhls combine with the four lettermen to round out the top six players.

Among the four remaining team members pushing for a spot in the top six, Ray Langdon of Cape Girardeau is rated by Williams as the biggest threat. The sophomore came out late for the team but has been progressing rapidly, according to the Indian coach.

Rounding out the team are juniors Kevin Arand of Union and Les Oyler of Marissa, Ill., and freshman Dave Crawford of Pinckneyville, Ill.

If you're tired hearing that "Big Red Machine" cliche, you'll be sick of it after this summer of National League baseball.

The Cincinnati Reds appear to have enough wheels and power to motor through the West, and then some.

How good are the Reds? Well, they're good enough to acquire an All-Star outfielder from the American League and think about keeping him on the shelf.

Richie Scheinblum, who hit .300 for the Kansas City Royals last season, is one of the new Redlegs—and according to Manager Sparky Anderson, won't have a regular job this year.

Of course, Cincinnati's new Rich kid could have a red-hot hand and beat out Cesar Geronimo in right field. But that may be the only tenuous position in a talent-laden lineup that conquered the National League last year.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, defending East champions, may be hurt emotionally by the tragic loss of Roberto Clemente but still have enough muscles to be classified as heavyweights in their division.

Teams challenging the apparent front-runners should be the Houston Astros in the West and Chicago Cubs in the East. If the Reds and Pirates play up to potential, though, it'll be all over by early September.

Cincinnati has a two-time Most Valuable Player in catcher Johnny Bench, a base stealer supreme in second baseman Joe Morgan, a fence-breaker in first baseman Tony Perez and several other diamond sparklers like left fielder Pete Rose and center fielder Bobby Tolan.

If anyone can match this team in potential, the Astros might. Trouble is, they have never played up to potential. Perhaps Leo Durocher, in his first full season as the Houston manager, can get the team to do so in 1973.

The Atlanta Braves improved themselves tremendously with off-season trades and could make a run at the Reds, although not as strong as the Astros.

A poor fourth in the West last season, 25 games off the pace, the Braves have acquired pitching and defense and filled plenty of holes.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have their perennial strength, a strong pitching staff. But a lack of power will probably shortcircuit their pennant drive and keep them behind the Reds, Astros and Braves.

San Francisco's Giants have a young club of potential with outfielder Bobby Bonds, shortstop Chris Speier, third baseman Dave Kingman, catcher Dave Rader and first baseman Willie McCovey. But their lack of pitching depth will hurt the Giants and probably doom them to a fifth-place finish.

Holding up the West, as usual, will be the San Diego Padres, who have slugger Nate Colbert and plenty of baseball babies.

There's some doubt about the Pittsburgh machine this year because of the absence of Roberto Clemente, considered by some to be the best all-around player in baseball in his time. The Pirates may miss the leadership of their veteran, killed in a plane crash on New Year's Eve, but still have enough brute strength to bully the East race for the fourth straight year.

The Chicago Cubs appear to be locked into second place this year—as they have been perennially. Despite the presence of 20-game winner Ferguson Jenkins and no-hit pitcher Milt Pappas, the Cubs' staff is not that deep and will probably be their downfall this year.

In New York, Tom Seaver and Jon Matlack are two solid starters on an otherwise questionable pitching staff. Rusty Staub is the leading hitter, but he doesn't hit too many home runs—and that is another Met problem. They failed to finish higher than third last year because of little long-ball punch and will no doubt fail to finish higher tha fourth this year for the same reason.

Seaver draws attention

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New Mets' pitching staff revolves around Tom Seaver and one of the issues in their spring training camp also revolves around Tom Seaver.

The issue: Should Seaver pitch as much as possible, despite the unhappy feelings of others?

"I'm going to pitch whenever the pitching coach and the manager put my name in the lineup," says Seaver.

Seaver pitched six innings of two-hit ball Wednesday as the Mets beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-0, but his brilliance didn't overshadow the issue recently brought to the surface by Jerry Koosman.

Koosman, the No. 4 starter on the staff, had complained about Seaver receiving preferential treatment.

Bob Scheffing, the Mets' general manager, stepped into the discussion rather forcefully Wednesday.

"Tom is going to pitch whenever he's ready," exclaimed Scheffing.

In the other exhibition games, the Oakland A's ripped the Chicago Cubs 13-3; the Chicago White Sox slugged the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0; the Boston Red Sox trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers topped the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the Atlanta Braves 2-1; the Kansas City Royals downed the Texas Rangers 8-2; the Milwaukee Brewers beat the San Diego Padres 9-4; the Houston Astros whipped the Detroit Tigers 4-2; the San Francisco Giants tripped the California Angels 32 in 11 innings and the Baltimore Orioles defeated the New York Yankees 4-3.

After Seaver pitched the first six innings, Phil Hennigan wrapped up the shutout with three scoreless frames. Cleon Jones walloped a three-run homer for the Mets.

Vida Blue made his first start since signing his 1973 baseball contract last Monday, but didn't stick around long enough to get the decision as Oakland walloped Chicago.

Wilbur Wood pitched seven scoreless innings, his longest stretch of the spring, as the Chicago White Sox whipped the Pirates. Rick Reichardt knocked in two runs for the winners.

Marty Pattin scattered five singles over seven innings and Boston capitalized on Bob Gibson's wildness to beat St. Louis.

Manny Mota and Lee Lacy collected three hits apiece and knocked in a total of three runs to lead the Dodgers over the Expos. Mota had three singles while Lacy collected a triple and two singles.

Bill Robinson, spoiling an intentional walk, swung at the fourth pitch and drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning single as Philadelphia nipped Atlanta.

Kansas City downed Texas as Ed Kirkpatrick and Amos Otis hit home runs; Don Money's three-run triple keyed a fiverun third inning for Milwaukee that carried the Brewers past San Diego; Doug Rader hit a homer to help Houston beat Detroit; Ken Berry dropped a fly ball with two out in the 11th inning, allowing the winning run to score as San Francisco defeated California and Mike Cuellar and Doyle Alexander combined to pitch Baltimore over the Yankees.

'LET IT SNOW' NOT QUEBEC'S SONG

QUEBEC (AP) — Residents here have a wish — no more snow. By the beginning of February, more than 90 inches had fallen, compared with 52 inches by the corresponding part of the winter last year.

Dexter Packing Company charged with violations

WASHINGTON— Dexter Packing Company, Inc., of Dexter, Mo., has been charged with violating payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

The firm purchases livestock, poultry and meat in Southeast Missouri and western Tennessee.

USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration charged in an administrative complaint that the firm issued insufficient funds checks and failed to pay, e, for more than $2,700 worth of livestock, poultry and meat purchased from March through August 1972.

Filing of the complaint does not prove that the firm has violated the Packers and Stockyards Act. The firm has a right to a hearing to determine whether the evidence supports the charges. If the charges are proven, the firm could be placed under a cease and desist order.

Meat packers are required under the P&S Act to pay promptly for livestock, poultry and meat unless credit has been arranged in advance.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat. The act is administered on a nondiscriminatory basis.

The record in this case is open to the public. Copies of this complaint, P&S Docket 4767, may be obtained from the Information Officer, Packers and Stockyards Administration, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Bond to give keynote address

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond will give the keynote address for the 15th annual Missouri Industrial Development Conference in Jefferson City April 12-13.

Henry Maddox, director of the State Division of Commerce and Industrial Development, said the governor's address will be carried live over more than 20 Missouri radio stations.

Maddox said other speakers will include: F. J. Spencer, president of International Management Services, Houston, Tex.; Robert C. Bradey, president of Facilities Planning Service Inc., Cleveland, Ohio, and Robert E. Leak, director of the Office of Industrial Tourist and Community Resources for the State of North Carolina.

Harlequin players to give 'The Curious Savage'

"The Curious Savage," a three- act comedy written by John Patrick, will be presented by the Sikeston High School Harlequin Players at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday on the junior high school stage.

The play revolves around Mrs. Ethel Savage, a widow who wants to establish a "happiness fund" with $10 million left to her by her deceased husband. The purpose of the fund is to help people less fortunate than the Savage family.

Mrs. Savage's three stepchildren disapprove of their mother's actions, question her sanity and have her committed to "The Cloisters," where she meets several colorful characters who "have no business being there."

The three stepchildren, Sen. Titus Savage, who is the only man who cannot get into the White House; Judge Samuel Savage, who has had more decisions reversed than any other judge; and Lilly Belle, whose six divorces have created sensational news the world around, demand their share of the fortune, but Mrs. Savage devises several devious schemes to keep her money.

The cast includes Jo Ellen Felker as Mrs. Savage, Melba Gilliland as Lilly Belle, David Ahlvin as Titus, Mark Ahlvin as Samuel, Debi Cloud as Fairy May, Cathy Brown as Florence, Wayne Noe as Jeff, Mike Marsh as Hannibal, Debbie White as Mrs. Paddy, Roy Sanderson as Dr. Emmett and Theresa Weathers as Miss Willie.

Miss Barbara Brown is the director and Peter Myers Jr. serves as her assistant. David Ziegenhorn will work as stage manager.

Tickets may be purchased from members of Harlequin Players or at the door on evenings of performance.

Weems enters plea

CHARLESTON — Junior Weems of East Prairie entered a voluntary plea of guilty to felony charges of burglary and stealing before Circuit Court Judge Marshall Craig and was sentenced to a two-year term in the state penitentiary on each count with sentences to run consecutively.

Weems, who pleaded guilty to breaking into the A. C. Riley home on New Madrid Route One on Sept. 27, 1971, and stealing food items, was given credit for 318 days served in jail prior to sentencing.

Judgment of $12,855.24, plus costs and six per cent interest per annum was awarded Tubesales, a corporation, in an account suit brought against Watson Real Estate Co.

American Oil Co. received judgment in the amount of $2,642.90 at six per cent interest, plus costs, in an account suit brought against Homer C. True.

An account suit brought by Custom Farm Services against Dearmont Oliver was ordered transferred to Scott County.

Low bid on Colson project is $610,000

CARUTHERSVILLE— Mayor Bill Inman announced Monday that the low bidder on the Colson Corporation expansion project was Earl Cook Construction Company of Paragould, Ark. The bid was $610,000.

Bids were opened March 22. Only two bids were submitted.

The other bid submitted was from Rogers Construction Company of Dexter. The figure was $684,874.

"The bids were opened but not accepted," the mayor explained. "The bids were taken under advisement by architect B.A. England of Corinth, Miss., and the engineer, Bill Roddy of the Colson Company."

The mayor said he did not know when a decision would be made on the bids.

Caruthersville voters went to the polls last week and overwhelmingly approved an $800,000 Colson expansion bond issue. Two proposals were submitted to the voters, one for $500,000 in revenue bonds and the other for $300,000 in general obligation bonds.

The revenue bond proposal was approved 515 to 49 and the general obligation bond proposal was passed 477 to 67.

When a bid is accepted from a construction company, plans call for construction of two new buildings. The buildings will be added to the south of the present facility.

The expansion will add 60,000 square feet of floor space, doubling the present amount of production space.

Air conditioning and antipollution devices are also included in the plans.

Phone bills will rise this month

Southwestern Bell customers in Missouri may notice a slight increase in their telephone bills beginning this month as a result of a recent ruling by the International Revenue Service.

IRS has ruled that the federal communications tax -- the federal excise tax on telephone service -- must be applied not only to charges for telephone service but also to the Missouri state and city sales taxes. The current rate of the federal tax is nine per cent.

The change amounts to a few cents on the average residential customer's telephone bill.

"The IRS has been considering this matter for some time," says Dave Schmieg, manager for Southwestern Bell in Sikeston. "We don't agree that the Missouri state and city sales taxes should be included in the amount to which the federal tax is applied, and we sought reconsideration of an earlier initial ruling."

He said the company's appeal was denied and in late February the IRS issued its final decision.

"Since the telephone company is simply an excise tax- collecting agent for the United States government, we have gone as far as we can in opposing this decision," said Schmieg. "Now we are obligated to collect the tax and pay it to the government."

The change involves no difference in rates for telephone service.

Dexter Packing Company charged with violations

WASHINGTON— Dexter Packing Company, Inc., of Dexter, Mo., has been charged with violating payment requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said today.

The firm purchases livestock, poultry and meat in Southeast Missouri and western Tennessee.

USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration charged in an administrative complaint that the firm issued insufficient funds checks and failed to pay, e, for more than $2,700 worth of livestock, poultry and meat purchased from March through August 1972.

Filing of the complaint does not prove that the firm has violated the Packers and Stockyards Act. The firm has a right to a hearing to determine whether the evidence supports the charges. If the charges are proven, the firm could be placed under a cease and desist order.

Meat packers are required under the P&S Act to pay promptly for livestock, poultry and meat unless credit has been arranged in advance.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat. The act is administered on a nondiscriminatory basis.

Council authorizes new community building

MALDEN — The city Council Monday night agreed to authorize Mayor Sparrel Davis to sign a contract with the Haywood Snipes A.I.A. Architect firm of Poplar Bluff have his engineer attend a later to draw up plans for a new community building to be located where the old Sale Barn now stands.

An ordinance was approved to increase expense allowances of the mayor and chief of police.

Mayor Davis read part of a contract between the Civil Aeronautical Administration of Kansas City and Malden Industrial Park concerning new park facilities now in the process of being built. After discussing the matter, the council agreed to sign the contract.

The council agreed to raise the salaries of judges and clerks to $20 each per day for city elections.

The council approved the mayor's nominations to a committee for planning the Community Building. Named were Pat Morehead, Les Heise, Jack Waller, Allen Black, Geraldine McCurter, Mart Bostic, Andy Adkins, Harold Perkins, John Ammon, Anna Mae Jones and Dennis Roach.

James Darnell, commissioner of the Little League Baseball program, asked the council to contribute some seats for the Little League park. This was turned over to the park committee to work out the costs and bring back to a later meeting.

Marge Lee of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity corporation Center asked the council to hire someone to carry on the work now done through the DAEOC program. The council assured her that if and when the DAEOC program is abolished, it would give consideration to her proposal.

An attorney for Floyd Hampton requested the city to pay a special city tax bill on Hampton's property. Gordon Fritz, city attorney, asked if he could meet with the council to discuss the matter and give his legal opinion, but a date was not decided upon.

Benny Lemons, representing himself as a landfill agent, proposed to the city a $1.94 charge per capita for using his landfill per year. He told the council he could meeting to discuss it further, if the council was interested.

Ron Yersak of Bootheel Regional Planning Commission presented a rundown on what each city in Dunklin County has received in grants and how much each has contributed to the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission in the form of a tax assessments.

A sidewalk project on the James Street property was discussed, and the council decided to summons Street into court for not following the instructions of the council. Street had been instructed to put up ropes around the area where he was putting in new sidewalks in order to prevent an accident from happening.

The property of John Azbill at the corner of Smith and Morris Streets was discussed and the council decided to allow the curb to be taken out and supervised by the street department.

Tuckpointing of the library was discussed, and the council was informed that Joe Walker would do the work. The city will then hire someone to paint the work. It was agreed to have Mart Bostic get an estimate on this work for a later meeting.

Bill Johnson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, thanked the council for its help while he has served as manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Johnson then informed the council that he has resigned his post.

In executive session the council agreed to raise City Clerk Roscoe Thornton's salary to $500 per month. This was the Clerk's first raise in four years. The street commissioner's salary was raised to $132 per week.

Bills go to Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House passed and sent to the Senate today a number of bills, including ones to equalize the pay of state employes living in nonurban areas with those who live live in urban areas, and to compensate victims of crime who suffer personal injury or to the survivors of crime victims who died.

The Senate defeated, 18-13, a bill to set up a Missouri Bureau of Investigation under the highway patrol.

Opponents said the patrol, which has a similar investigative arm, has enough to do without adding another layer of responsibility.

The bill was a substitute for one originally offered by Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton. Clinton's bill would set up the MBI under a non-partisan board. He said this would keep politics out of the MBI.

Sen. Edward Linehan, D-St. Louis, said he feared the MBI might become a "gestapo" type agency and he opposed it in any form.

Also passed in the House were bills to:

—Require statewide voter registration in the 76 counties which do not presently have it.

—Require sales taxes be paid only on the difference between a trade-in item and the cost of the new item being purchased.

—Restructure the legislative research staff into sections for drafting bills and for researching legislation, and to allow the staff to be inc eased.

—Establish a standard form for reporting traffic accidents to the highway patrol.

—Bring the Missouri Tourism Commission under the state Inter-Agency Council for outdoor recreation.

Kennett woman dies in wreck

KENNETT, MO. (AP) — A 29- year- old Kennett woman was killed early today when her car and a semi- trailer truck collided on Missouri 25 about 10 miles north of here.

The highway patrol said the victim was Judy Miller.

Woman hurt

HOWARDVILLE — A Lilbourn woman was injured Wednesday in a traffic accident at the Howardville exit on Interstate 55.

Roxie Marie Gremore, 35, suffered facial cuts at 9 a.m. when she swerved her car to avoid a State Highway Department vehicle which was making a left turn at the top of the overpass on Highway 61 and struck a road sign on the left side of the road.

She was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

9 treated

Nine accident patients were treated Wednesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

William Richards, 46, New Madrid, injured back in fall over a wire reel; Timonty Rodgers, 4, Sikeston, bruised and cut face in fall; Nancy Medelberg, 11, Sikeston, bruised left arm when brother feli on arm; David Fletcher, 15, Essex, injured left middle finger in fall; Karen Tubbs, 12, Sikeston, bruised right elbow on machine.

Assistant ships available at SeMo University

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A limited number of administrative graduate assistantships in history are available at Southeast Missouri State University, the history department has announced.

The assistantships provide a stipend of from $1,000 to $2,000 per academic year, depending upon a student's work load. Graduate assistants are required to take at least two courses per semester.

Southeast Missouri State offers graduate majors in history for students pursuing a master of arts degree or a master of arts in teaching degree.

Applicants for graduate assistantships should have at least a 2.5 undergraduate grade point average and a 3-0 average in history. They must be admitted to graduate study at Southeast Missouri State and obtain a Graduate Assistant Approval form from the graduate officer or history department before their application can be acted upon.

Additional information may be obtained from Dr. Lawrence Breeze, professor of history at the university.

The council agreed to raise the salaries of judges and clerks to $20 each per day for city elections.

The council approved the mayor's nominations to a committee for planning the Community Building. Named were Pat Morehead, Les Heise, Jack Waller, Allen Black, Geraldine McCurter, Mart Bostic, Andy Adkins, Harold Perkins, John Ammon, Anna Mae Jones and Dennis Roach.

James Darnell, commissioner of the Little League Baseball program, asked the council to contribute some seats for the Little League park. This was turned over to the park committee to work out the costs and bring back to a later meeting.

Marge Lee of the Delta Area Economic Opportunity corporation Center asked the council to hire someone to carry on the work now done through the DAEOC program. The council assured her that if and when the DAEOC program is abolished, it would give consideration to her proposal.

An attorney for Floyd Hampton requested the city to pay a special city tax bill on Hampton's property. Gordon Fritz, city attorney, asked if he could meet with the council to discuss the matter and give his legal opinion, but a date was not decided upon.

Benny Lemons, representing himself as a landfill agent, proposed to the city a $1.94 charge per capita for using his landfill per year. He told the council he could meeting to discuss it further, if the council was interested.

Ron Yersak of Bootheel Regional Planning Commission presented a rundown on what each city in Dunklin County has received in grants and how much each has contributed to the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission in the form of a tax assessments.

A sidewalk project on the James Street property was discussed, and the council decided to summons Street into court for not following the instructions of the council. Street had been instructed to put up ropes around the area where he was putting in new sidewalks in order to prevent an accident from happening.

The property of John Azbill at the corner of Smith and Morris Streets was discussed and the council decided to allow the curb to be taken out and supervised by the street department.

Tuckpointing of the library was discussed, and the council was informed that Joe Walker would do the work. The city will then hire someone to paint the work. It was agreed to have Mart Bostic get an estimate on this work for a later meeting.

Bill Johnson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, thanked the council for its help while he has served as manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Johnson then informed the council that he has resigned his post.

In executive session the council agreed to raise City Clerk Roscoe Thornton's salary to $500 per month. This was the Clerk's first raise in four years. The street commissioner's salary was raised to $132 per week.

Bills go to Senate

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri House passed and sent to the Senate today a number of bills, including ones to equalize the pay of state employes living in nonurban areas with those who live live in urban areas, and to compensate victims of crime who suffer personal injury or to the survivors of crime victims who died.

The Senate defeated, 18-13, a bill to set up a Missouri Bureau of Investigation under the highway patrol.

Opponents said the patrol, which has a similar investigative arm, has enough to do without adding another layer of responsibility.

The bill was a substitute for one originally offered by Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton. Clinton's bill would set up the MBI under a non-partisan board. He said this would keep politics out of the MBI.

Sen. Edward Linehan, D-St. Louis, said he feared the MBI might become a "gestapo" type agency and he opposed it in any form.

Also passed in the House were bills to:

—Require statewide voter registration in the 76 counties which do not presently have it.

—Require sales taxes be paid only on the difference between a trade-in item and the cost of the new item being purchased.

—Restructure the legislative research staff into sections for drafting bills and for researching legislation, and to allow the staff to be inc eased.

—Establish a standard form for reporting traffic accidents to the highway patrol.

—Bring the Missouri Tourism Commission under the state Inter-Agency Council for outdoor recreation.

Kennett woman dies in wreck

KENNETT, MO. (AP) — A 29- year- old Kennett woman was killed early today when her car and a semi- trailer truck collided on Missouri 25 about 10 miles north of here.

The highway patrol said the victim was Judy Miller.

Woman hurt

HOWARDVILLE — A Lilbourn woman was injured Wednesday in a traffic accident at the Howardville exit on Interstate 55.

Roxie Marie Gremore, 35, suffered facial cuts at 9 a.m. when she swerved her car to avoid a State Highway Department vehicle which was making a left turn at the top of the overpass on Highway 61 and struck a road sign on the left side of the road.

She was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

9 treated

Nine accident patients were treated Wednesday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

William Richards, 46, New Madrid, injured back in fall over a wire reel; Timonty Rodgers, 4, Sikeston, bruised and cut face in fall; Nancy Medelberg, 11, Sikeston, bruised left arm when brother feli on arm; David Fletcher, 15, Essex, injured left middle finger in fall; Karen Tubbs, 12, Sikeston, bruised right elbow on machine.

Assistant ships available at SeMo University

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A limited number of administrative graduate assistantships in history are available at Southeast Missouri State University, the history department has announced.

The assistantships provide a stipend of from $1,000 to $2,000 per academic year, depending upon a student's work load. Graduate assistants are required to take at least two courses per semester.

Southeast Missouri State offers graduate majors in history for students pursuing a master of arts degree or a master of arts in teaching degree.

Applicants for graduate assistantships should have at least a 2.5 undergraduate grade point average and a 3-0 average in history. They must be admitted to graduate study at Southeast Missouri State and obtain a Graduate Assistant Approval form from the graduate officer or history department before their application can be acted upon.

Additional information may be obtained from Dr. Lawrence Breeze, professor of history at the university.

"HEALTH TIPS"

In primitive times, witch doctors tried to cure sickness by magic. The story of modern drugs reads like a tale of magic. But it is all true. The years since 1900 have seen an amazing improvement in health in the United States. The life expectancy at birth of the general population has been lengthened from about 47 years in 1900 to 70 years today.

MOUTH-WATERING MELONS TO GROW FROM SEED

Hale's Best melon, shown above, has very good quality and thick, sweet orange flesh. Honey Rocks, Samson Hybrid and Pride of Wisconsin are other good choices for the home garden.

Why are many new gardeners so conservative about the kinds of vegetables they grow? Lettuce, beans and tomatoes are great for general use, but nothing in the garden can quite match the pride and pleasure you'll feel in growing your first big, juicy mouth-watering melons.

Melon seed is easy-to-handle, germinates rapidly if planted after all danger of frost, and as the vines grow fast during the hot, humid days of summer, you'll find yourself drawn to the garden each evening to admire the progress of your melon vines.

Melon growing really is very easy, but many beginner gardeners are discouraged because of the space they occupy. What few people seem to realize is that melons will grow happily up trellis, and the heavy, ripening melons can be supported by "slings" of cloth to occupy no more space in the garden than tomato plants.

Melons have some definite needs, of course. They like a loose, crumbly, fertile soil and full sun for worthwhile results. But apart from these few needs they will look after themselves.

Mulching is a big help to melons, since their roots need plenty of moisture and warmth. A black plastic mulch has been found best for melons since it not only keeps the ground warm and moist, but also discourages weeds.

Any seed catalog or seed display will offer a tempting selection of fine melon varieties, but cantaloupes will be in greatest supply. Pride of Wisconsin is a fine, old-fashioned melon that fresh-fruit stands every year do a roaring business with. A dollar and more per melon is what many people will pay to sample its delicious sweet orange flesh, yet a packet of seeds costing a fraction less will plant dozens of vines — each vine capable of yielding eight or more luscious fruit.

Of course every seed company offers its own favorite variety of melon, and whatever your preference, it's fun to experiment each year with something different until you find your own personal favorite.

PORTULACA LIKES IT HOT

Growing like miniature roses, this picture illustrates perfectly why portulaca is sometimes called "moss rose". Unlike roses, however, portulaca thrives in hot weather and continues to produce a brilliant display even during drought.

If you have a hot, dry area of your garden that needs brightening up, then portulaca would be right at home there. Portulaca — sometimes called moss rose because of its resemblance to miniature rose blossoms — is a low growing, succulent annual from the desert regions. It loves an open, sunny location, where it spreads its dainty shimmering flowers in a veritable carpet of color.

Even a poor, dry soil will suit portulaca. In fact, it hates cool weather, and if shade falls on it during the course of the day it will close its flowers.

Seed is best sown where you want the plants to bloom, well after danger of frost. The flowers soon appear in colors ranging from white and yellow to pink and red. The seeds are tiny, need scattering very thinly, and a packet will sow hundreds of low-growing plants which never attain more than six inches in height.

In recent years, plant breeders have been trying to develop new varieties with larger flowers, and there are now several hybrids available. Although separate colors are available, the mixtures are far more appealing.

Portulaca is just right for planting in a sunny rockery, a window box or patio container, and it is a magnificent sight when used to edge an open driveway. It can be relied upon to give a long period of bloom — from early summer until fall frosts, each plant ultimately spreading to a width of two or more feet.

BUSH SWEET PEAS

Imagine bushy sweet peas like this one in your flower boxes, beds or borders — all new uses for a well-loved fragrant flower.

For generations sweet peas were tall-growing vines. But in recent years bush forms have been developed. Tiniest are those named Little Sweetheart since they grow in compact mounds only 8 inches tall. The little blooms have ruffled petals and a mixture of seeds will result in plants with white, pink, rose, carmine and dark blue flowers.

Knee-Hi sweet peas begin to bloom exceptionally early, have big blossoms and plants are heat resistant. They also will support themselves so that no staking is needed though they grow 2½ feet tall. Seeds are available in mixed colors.

Plants of the Bijou strain reach only a foot in height. Even so, flower stems are long enough to cut for indoor use. All the usual sweet pea colors and others such as maroon, mid-blue and salmon can be bought separately or in mixture.

RACING JACKET — On fashion's fast track is this snappy jacket in a crisp, cool predominately cotton blend. Contrast top-stitching and neat tab pockets are stylish details. It's cut with raglan sleeves for a roomy, comfortable fit. By White Stag, it's 75% cotton/25% polyester.

In August, 1962, visitors at the Seattle World's Fair (The Century 21 Exposition) were treated to the largest "birthday" cake ever baked. It weighed 25,000 lbs., baked by Van de Kemp's Holland Dutch Bakers of Seattle, Washington. The cake was 23 ft. high, with a circumference of 60 ft. The ingredients included 18,000 eggs, 10,500 lbs. flour, 4,000 lbs. of cane sugar, 7,000 lbs. of raisins, 2,200 lbs. of pecans, and 100 lbs. of salt.

Treat your family to Refined water. Refined Water brings out the true, full flavor of your food, and your brewed coffee will be more clear and transparent. It takes less coffee and tea with Refined Water, as mineral laden water neutralizes the true coffee and tea flavor. Treat yourself to better tasting food and drink. Try refined water! Call

Hale's Best melon, shown above, has very good quality and thick, sweet orange flesh. Honey Rocks, Samson Hybrid and Pride of Wisconsin are other good choices for the home garden.

Why are many new gardeners so conservative about the kinds of vegetables they grow? Lettuce, beans and tomatoes are great for general use, but nothing in the garden can quite match the pride and pleasure you'll feel in growing your first big, juicy mouth-watering melons.

Melon seed is easy-to-handle, germinates rapidly if planted after all danger of frost, and as the vines grow fast during the hot, humid days of summer, you'll find yourself drawn to the garden each evening to admire the progress of your melon vines.

Melon growing really is very easy, but many beginner gardeners are discouraged because of the space they occupy. What few people seem to realize is that melons will grow happily up trellis, and the heavy, ripening melons can be supported by "slings" of cloth to occupy no more space in the garden than tomato plants.

Melons have some definite needs, of course. They like a loose, crumbly, fertile soil and full sun for worthwhile results. But apart from these few needs they will look after themselves.

Mulching is a big help to melons, since their roots need plenty of moisture and warmth. A black plastic mulch has been found best for melons since it not only keeps the ground warm and moist, but also discourages weeds.

Any seed catalog or seed display will offer a tempting selection of fine melon varieties, but cantaloupes will be in greatest supply. Pride of Wisconsin is a fine, old-fashioned melon that fresh-fruit stands every year do a roaring business with. A dollar and more per melon is what many people will pay to sample its delicious sweet orange flesh, yet a packet of seeds costing a fraction less will plant dozens of vines — each vine capable of yielding eight or more luscious fruit.

Of course every seed company offers its own favorite variety of melon, and whatever your preference, it's fun to experiment each year with something different until you find your own personal favorite.

PORTULACA LIKES IT HOT

Growing like miniature roses, this picture illustrates perfectly why portulaca is sometimes called "moss rose". Unlike roses, however, portulaca thrives in hot weather and continues to produce a brilliant display even during drought.

If you have a hot, dry area of your garden that needs brightening up, then portulaca would be right at home there. Portulaca — sometimes called moss rose because of its resemblance to miniature rose blossoms — is a low growing, succulent annual from the desert regions. It loves an open, sunny location, where it spreads its dainty shimmering flowers in a veritable carpet of color.

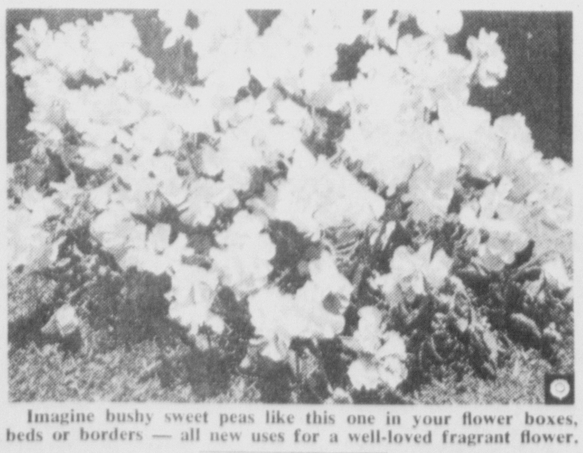
Even a poor, dry soil will suit portulaca. In fact, it hates cool weather, and if shade falls on it during the course of the day it will close its flowers.

Seed is best sown where you want the plants to bloom, well after danger of frost. The flowers soon appear in colors ranging from white and yellow to pink and red. The seeds are tiny, need scattering very thinly, and a packet will sow hundreds of low-growing plants which never attain more than six inches in height.

In recent years, plant breeders have been trying to develop new varieties with larger flowers, and there are now several hybrids available. Although separate colors are available, the mixtures are far more appealing.

Portulaca is just right for planting in a sunny rockery, a window box or patio container, and it is a magnificent sight when used to edge an open driveway. It can be relied upon to give a long period of bloom — from early summer until fall frosts, each plant ultimately spreading to a width of two or more feet.

BUSH SWEET PEAS



Imagine bushy sweet peas like this one in your flower boxes, beds or borders — all new uses for a well-loved fragrant flower.

For generations sweet peas were tall-growing vines. But in recent years bush forms have been developed. Tiniest are those named Little Sweetheart since they grow in compact mounds only 8 inches tall. The little blooms have ruffled petals and a mixture of seeds will result in plants with white, pink, rose, carmine and dark blue flowers.

Knee-Hi sweet peas begin to bloom exceptionally early, have big blossoms and plants are heat resistant. They also will support themselves so that no staking is needed though they grow 2½ feet tall. Seeds are available in mixed colors.

Plants of the Bijou strain reach only a foot in height. Even so, flower stems are long enough to cut for indoor use. All the usual sweet pea colors and others such as maroon, mid-blue and salmon can be bought separately or in mixture.

In August, 1962, visitors at the Seattle World's Fair (The Century 21 Exposition) were treated to the largest "birthday" cake ever baked. It weighed 25,000 lbs., baked by Van de Kemp's Holland Dutch Bakers of Seattle, Washington. The cake was 23 ft. high, with a circumference of 60 ft. The ingredients included 18,000 eggs, 10,500 lbs. flour, 4,000 lbs. of cane sugar, 7,000 lbs. of raisins, 2,200 lbs. of pecans, and 100 lbs. of salt.

Treat your family to Refined water. Refined Water brings out the true, full flavor of your food, and your brewed coffee will be more clear and transparent. It takes less coffee and tea with Refined Water, as mineral laden water neutralizes the true coffee and tea flavor. Treat yourself to better tasting food and drink. Try refined water! Call

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Grain and soybean futures prices were irregular in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

On the opening, wheat was 1 cent a bushel lower to 2 3/4 higher, May 2.23 5/8; corn was 1/4 lower to 1 higher, May 1.58 1/8; oats were 7/8 to 1 1/2 higher, May (new) 83 5/8 cents and soybeans were 7 3/4 lower to 1/4 higher, May 5.47.

Famers told to hold back hogs, cattle, lambs

The National Farmers Organization has told its members to withhold hogs, cattle and lambs from the market starting today because of a record drop in hog prices and a decline in cattle prices.

The influential farm group took the action Wednesday night because "the price drop on hogs has been so drastic that it requires immediate action," NFO President Oren Lee Staley said in Corning, Iowa. The NFO also called for farmers' meetings in 15 cities Friday to determine future action.

The falling prices came as plans for a nationwide meat boycott next week gained support. In San Francisco Wednesday, some 200 persons paraded at the Federal Building plaza and shouted pledges not to eat meat next week and on Tuesdays and Thursdays thereafter.

"We want to see the meat rotting in the packing house lockers and maybe we'll get action," said Ray Alper of the Consumer Federation of California.

The decline in hog prices was blamed on "panic selling and a lack of confidence in what the market will be tomorrow or next week" by a spokesman for the hog market in Des Moines, Iowa.

"This has to be the impact of what they call consumer resistance," said Ron Jarvis, president of Oppenheimer Industries of Kansas City. Oppenheimer operates one of the biggest cattle herds in the nation.

Jarvis and other cattlemen expressed doubt that they could withhold herds even from a declining market. "The cost of holding them gets too prohibitive. And I don't know anybody that isn't trying to raise as much beef as they can," said cattle producer Phil Arnold, of Ashland, Kan.

In Iowa Wednesday, hog prices closed down $3 to $ per hundredweight from Tuesday's sliding prices. A San Diego, Calif., meat packer said area packing houses were processing 10 to 20 per cent less beef than normal.

Metropolitan New York meat packers were also feeling the effects of the threatened boycott. At the Bronx Terminal Meat Market wholesalers reported cutting their work forces by as much as 50 per cent.

Groups claiming to represent the housewife were forging ahead with their boycott meeting called by State Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, one of the unofficial organizers of the nationwide boycott.

Persons wishing to join the boycott have been given a bit of advice Dr. Joseph Kirstan, twon health officer in Vernon, Conn. He suggested that persons planning to eliminate meat should take vitamin B12 tablets as a protein supplement. A number of schools have also said they would join the protest. The Enfield, Conn., school district said it would not serve meat dishes in its cafeterias next week.

Some positions open on seven Pemiscot County school boards

CARUTHERSVILLE — The seven school districts in Pemiscot County will be affected by Tuesday's elections as all seven school boards have positions to be filled. All the terms to be filled are three- year terms.

There are no races for a position on the Caruthersville school board. Dr. Alan Gubin and James Burton have refiled for their seats on the board. There were no other filings. Filing deadline was March 14.

Other members of the board who were not up for re-election this year are president Robert O. Pierce, vice president Julian Boyd, treasurer Mrs. Jane Betz and member Jimmy Dean.

Three persons are seeking two school board seats on the Hayti board. Incumbent and president of the board William D. Rhodes, incumbent James Vickrey, and challenger Rev. H. L. Taylor have filed. March 16 was the deadline for filing.

Other board members are vice president C. A. Vivrett and members Thad Shelly, Jim Hale and Mrs. Ina Claire Sanders.

The filing deadline was March 16 for the McCarty R-3 school district. Three persons have filed to be elected to two positions on the board.

Secretary of the board Mrs. Howard Fike, member Billy Joe Sides and Earl Bullington have filed.

Other members are president Billy McCulloch, vice president George Cooke, treasurer James Henry Taylor, and member Robert Powell.

Three persons have filed for two positions on the North Pemiscot school board at Wardell. Filing deadline was March 15.

Those who have filed are Bill Buck, vice president of the board Ed Martin and member Elmer Treece.

Other members are Bernard Brockett, secretary, president Clay Wilson; and Woodrow Burlison and James Cameron, members.

Four persons have filed for two positions on the South Pemiscot school board at Steele. Filing deadline was March 23.

Those who have filed are member Carl Avis, member Charles Kelley, F. B. Grice and Tommy Privett.

Not up for re-election are president Lemond Thompson, John Alford, vice president, and members D. W. Martin and Jack Crawford.

Two incumbents are unopposed for re-election to the Cooter school board. They are president Marshall Thomas and member Joe Burton. Filing deadline was March 16.

Other members are treasurer Gus Cooper, Tommy Campbell, member; vice president Kenneth Lawler, and member Ralph Sherwood.

Filing deadline is March 29 for a position on the Delta C-7 at Deering school board.

Four persons have filed to date to claim two three- year terms and an unexpired one-year term.

Larry Green has filed to retain the one- year unexpired term of Gary Bruton. Others who have filed are president Caleb Davis Jr., secretary Frank Grinstead and Jack Lewis.

Not up for re-election this year are vice president Joe Tidwell, treasurer Harold Jackson and member Delan Young.

SOPHIA LOREN STARS

ROME (AP) — Sophia Loren will star in "The Love Song of Mara Lumera," a film scheduled to go before the cameras next fall in Italy.

The story is of a beautiful widow of a Mafia leader who assumes her late husband's role, but repents and becomes a nun.

State to get computers on basis of bids

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The state plans to acquire new computer systems on a competitive bid basis, Robert L. James, assistant to the governor, said today.

He said a study of the state's needs in data processing will be made and will be presented to representatives of computer firms.

The state has leased its computers for six years.

A recent proposal by Univac, which Univac officials said could save the state money, was rejected because it would necessitate many changes in the present system, James said.

The revenue department's cost for computers started out at $33,385 a month six years ago and now is over $80,000 a month.

Changes of a large magnitude, James said, "will be placed on a bid basis instead of adopting a single company's proposal.

"This is in keeping with state laws and will provide for the acquisition of computer equipment in the same manner as followed in acquiring any other major equipment."

$2,000 raise keeps last year's standard of living

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A recent $2,000 raise has enabled the Marvin Menzels to maintan last year's standard of living.

"That should tell you something right there," said Menzel, about his raise and promotion to a product manager at Honeywell Inc., the electronics and computer firm.

"Very few people have that good fortune and if it takes that drastic an increase to maintain your standard of living then I think the stituation is pretty serious." His increase comes to about 13 per cent.

Menzel, his wife Dawn and two children live modestly if not frugally on his new gross income of $17,000. While the Menzels haven't had to make any major cutbacks, except for buying less expensive cuts of meat, neither can remember ever being so conscious of money and prices.

Menzel is planning to replace his 1969 Ford — she has a 1971 Pinto — but not before he does some serious comparison shopping.

"I can't remember when I've been so deliberate about buying a car," said Menzel, 29. "It will probably be a trauma."

Last summer they planted a small vegetable garden for the children to play with. This year they plan to raise vegetables.

Recently they tallied their canceled checks for food from Jan. 1 through March 15 of last year and came up with $299. This year the figure was $380.38.

"But we aren't exactly eating like we were eating last year," said Mrs. Menzel, 25. "You watch more closely. You go from hamburger to the roast. You try to figure out where is the most waste by shrinkage or by bone."

Sirloin steak is now a company-only treat and a weekly menu more than likely will include spaghetti, hash, pork and chili. Sometimes she shops several times in one week because, she said, she can't face spending a large sum of money all at once.

A year ago she shopped at only one grocery store. Now it's two and recently, when she wanted to fill her freezer, she went to three.

For that shopping trip Mrs. Menzel scrutinized four fullpage newspaper ads, clipped coupons and made three shopping lists. Before it was all over the excursion took two hours and cost $50.17 for 10 bags of groceries.

Bananas were 10 cents a pound where she bought them; 12 cents elsewhere. The beef steak she bought was 99 cents a pound; $1.59 at another store. She got turkey for 49 cents a pound instead of 59 cents and 79 cents at two other markets.

The Menzels do not keep a formal budget but their joint checking account, which they balance carefully, serves that purpose.

She writes a check for everything, even 72 cents to the newsboy.

Both cars are paid for. In fact, she paid cash for the Pinto and insisted that the car dealer remove the white sidewall tires and radio in order to bring down the cost. Menzel makes all the car repairs.

Their decisions to buy are made carefully. They almost always pay cash and always buy sale items. When they bought their Mediterrean-style bedroom and living room furniture on sale, they persuaded the store to give them a cut on a color television and stereo console, too.

Their only installment payment is on the 25-year, 7 1/4 per cent mortgage on their $32,000, three-bedroom home on the outskirts of Edina, a prosperous suburb of Minneapolis. Though they could have gotten more house for less money in another suburb, they chose this one in what she calls the "poor man's end of Edina" so the children could go to the area's good schools.

The Menzels have a simple lifestyle, centered around the Lutheran church and their family. They do not drink or smoke.

She has no ambition to have a large house, a swimming pool or membership in the country club, not far from their home. Her most expensive dress cost $40, a purchase she feels guilty about but she rationalizes that she has worn it frequently.

He needs a new suit, a $150 expenditure, and possibly he would like a pool table for their basement recreation room. He will buy the suit. The pool table he can do without.

They do most of the repairs on their home. They remodeled the kitchen for about $1,000, which included the purchase price of a garbage disposal and dishwasher. They had the linoleum floor laid professionally, though they took up the old carpet and did the sanding themselves.

Kristine, 5, attends a morning nursery school which costs $21 a month but so far most of the children's expenses are small. Swimming lessons for Scott, 7, at a municipal pool are only $3 for a course.

However, Mrs. Menzel feels the prices of children's clothes are outrageous. Kristine recently spotted a rain jacket in a store for $23. They didn't buy it.

One thing she refuses to compromise on is shoes. Scott's cost $17; Kristine's, $15.

Garage sales are big business on the street of pastel-colored ranch-style homes and Mrs. Menzel often buys clothes for the children from neighbors. A winter coat for Scott cost $4. She also got an eight-year-old sewing machine for $50 and she makes some of the children's clothes on it.

She tries to convey good spending habits to the children. When Kristine wants to pick out four packages of candy for her birthday party, she makes her choose only three. She resists the temptation to let the children add items to the grocery cart.

Even Scott recently exclaimed about the increase in prices when the tooth fairy left him 25 cents for a molar, instead of the usual 15 cents.

"I guess the tooth fairy is doing all right," said Mrs. Menzel.

For entertainment, the Menzels go to a movie about once every two months at $2.75 per ticket. This year they have gone to several hockey games on a friend's season tickets. At Christmas they saw the play, "I Do, I Do," at a dinner theater for $8 each. She goes to a ceramics class on Tuesdays which costs $1.50; and to Bible class on Wednesday which costs nothing. Baby sitters are $1 an hour when a neighbor is not available.

Menzel saves through a stock option plan which allows him to buy up to 12 per cent of his salary in Honeywell stock at a reduction. When the stock goes up in price, he sells it and uses that money for major cash expenditures, such as insurance premiums. Each month he also automatically buys a $25 savings bond for the children's education.

By the end of the year, they may have $1,000 left in savings, not counting the savings bonds.

On last year's vacation they went to visit her parents in Louisville, Ky. This year when Menzel has a business trip to California he plans to take the family to Disneyland.

A deeply religious couple, the Menzels give close to 10 per cent of their income to the church or the various causes that come to their attention. Two weeks ago, a man in church took up a collection for the Indians at Wounded Knee, S.D. Menzel gave $8, every penny in his pocket.

All things considered the Menzels think the cost of living increase may have come along at a time to make them think twice about their spending habits.

"It's probably been a good side effect on the cost of living increase — an increased awareness of how you are spending your money," Menzel said. "We are fortunate in not having to make any major adjustments, to some one as fortunate as we are it could be a blessing. For someone who is on a not too much lower income level than we are, I see nothing but disadvantages ..."

Habitual Offender Act introduced in state

Five years ago only a handful of men saw any relationship between the initials "H.O." and the continual increase in the number of highway auto accidents and deaths.

Four years ago a handful of Virginia independent insurance agents and law enforcement executives saw their Governor sign the nation's first Habitual Offender law into operation, and every year since then more states have adopted H. O. legislation designed to protect the 95 out of every 100 drivers who obey the rules of the road.

"Today," explained E. Ellwood Willard, CPCU, the president of the Missouri Association of Independent Insurance Agents, "fourteen states have followed the lead of Virginia and adopted their own H.O. laws. Now we have a total of 15 states, with a driving population of 30 million, covered by habitual offender legislation. Missouri has joined eleven other states in 1973 by the introduction of a H.O. Act, House Bill 813, by Representative Alvin E. Waits (D- Independence, Missouri."

Back in 1967 the Virginia Association of Insurance Agents, an affiliate of the 150,000 member National Association of Insurance Agents, saw it s state plagued by an ever increasing number of auto accidents resulting in more casualties, more fatalities and higher premiums for auto insurance.

With an assist from their state police and motor vehicle department, the Old Dominion insurance men learned that:

— approximately 2-5 percent of the drivers were responsible for 30% of the auto accidents;

— that drivers with three traffic violations were involved in accidents six times more frequently than average drivers;

— that "habitual offender" drivers were involved in fatal accidents about eight times more than the average driver.

In other words, the many good drivers were being penalized by the few bad drivers who arrogantly persisted in speeding, in bad driving, in ignoring stop signs and jumping traffic lights, in driving after drinking, and in driving after their licenses were revoked.

What the H.O. law did, originally in Virginia and then, with a boost by the National Association of Insurance Agents, in the other states, was to identify the arrogantly bad driver, warn him to behave, revoke his license for as long as 5 to 10 years if he didn't behave, and if he continued to drive after losing his license, apply a mandatory jail sentence that could not be suspended.

Thus, for the first time, the compulsive driver with a long record of dangerous driving, has to shape up or stop driving in the states of Virginia, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Maine, Massachusetts, Washington, Indiana, Georgia, Florida, Kansas, Ohio, Delaware and Louisana.

And with the start of legislative sessions in 1973 H.O. bills were awaiting action in New York, Connecticut and Iowa and introduced in New Jersey, Wisconsin, Colorado, Nevada, South Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia and Mississippi, beside Missouri.

Habitual Offender Act introduced in state

Five years ago only a handful of men saw any relationship between the initials "H.O." and the continual increase in the number of highway auto accidents and deaths.

Four years ago a handful of Virginia independent insurance agents and law enforcement executives saw their Governor sign the nation's first Habitual Offender law into operation, and every year since then more states have adopted H. O. legislation designed to protect the 95 out of every 100 drivers who obey the rules of the road.

"Today," explained E. Ellwood Willard, CPCU, the president of the Missouri Association of Independent Insurance Agents, "fourteen states have followed the lead of Virginia and adopted their own H.O. laws. Now we have a total of 15 states, with a driving population of 30 million, covered by habitual offender legislation. Missouri has joined eleven other states in 1973 by the introduction of a H.O. Act, House Bill 813, by Representative Alvin E. Waits (D- Independence, Missouri."

Back in 1967 the Virginia Association of Insurance Agents, an affiliate of the 150,000 member National Association of Insurance Agents, saw it s state plagued by an ever increasing number of auto accidents resulting in more casualties, more fatalities and higher premiums for auto insurance.

With an assist from their state police and motor vehicle department, the Old Dominion insurance men learned that:

— approximately 2-5 percent of the drivers were responsible for 30% of the auto accidents;

— that drivers with three traffic violations were involved in accidents six times more frequently than average drivers;

— that "habitual offender" drivers were involved in fatal accidents about eight times more than the average driver.

In other words, the many good drivers were being penalized by the few bad drivers who arrogantly persisted in speeding, in bad driving, in ignoring stop signs and jumping traffic lights, in driving after drinking, and in driving after their licenses were revoked.

What the H.O. law did, originally in Virginia and then, with a boost by the National Association of Insurance Agents, in the other states, was to identify the arrogantly bad driver, warn him to behave, revoke his license for as long as 5 to 10 years if he didn't behave, and if he continued to drive after losing his license, apply a mandatory jail sentence that could not be suspended.

Thus, for the first time, the compulsive driver with a long record of dangerous driving, has to shape up or stop driving in the states of Virginia, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Maine, Massachusetts, Washington, Indiana, Georgia, Florida, Kansas, Ohio, Delaware and Louisana.

And with the start of legislative sessions in 1973 H.O. bills were awaiting action in New York, Connecticut and Iowa and introduced in New Jersey, Wisconsin, Colorado, Nevada, South Carolina, Tennessee, West Virginia and Mississippi, beside Missouri.

'Pueblo' broadcast tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — "Powerful" and "moving" are two descriptions that critics use far too often. Still, they're good enough start for characterizing "Pueblo," which the ABC Television network plans to broadcast tonight.

We should add "terrifying," "brutal" and "uncompromising" to the list and cap it with "brilliant." Because the two-hour show is all this and more.

It's a dramatization, using real names and basic facts, of the seizure of the Navy spy ship, Pueblo, by North Korean PT boats off the coast of North Korea on Jan. 23, 1968.

It encompasses, among other things, the Navy and House inquiries into how the Pueblo became the first U.S. naval vessel to surrender to a foreign power in peacetime since 1807.

It also covers, in brutally realistic detail, the mental and physical anguish of the Pueblo's skipper, Lt. Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, when he had to make the decision under fire to surrender his slow, lightly armed ship and its crew to the North Koreans.

It doesn't hedge in graphically portraying the beatings and torture Bucher and his men endured in their 11 months of captivity.

Nor does it omit the ribald way they showed the world they were holding on, their message flashed in the obscene, upraised finger gesture their captors knew only as "a Hawaiian good-luck sign."

The story of what led to the Pueblo's capture — and what happened afterward — is superbly told through a series of flashbacks and scene changes that move from court to ship to prison and back again.

It starts with the lonely figure of Bucher (unforgettably etched by Hal Holbrook). He is seated in a chair, talking about his youth, his days at Boys' Town, his love for the Navy.

His face is strong, his manner alternately firm and uncertain as flashbulbs go off in his face and voices interrupt him to announce the opening phases of a naval court of inquiry.

The program builds from there, slowly and deliberately at first, then quickening and, in the process, building a damning case against a military hierarchy that sent Bucher to sea with uncertain communications, an uncertain ship and totally inadequate support.

The show undoubtedly will arouse its share of controversy over what it calls the "true facts" of the Pueblo affair.

Its chilling realism in portraying prison-camp brutality also may well cause an uproar from well-meaning people who think the grimmer facts of life should be watered down for television.

I'd advise them to find another channel Thursday night if they feel "Pueblo" will prove too disturbing.

Recreation fee guidelines finalized by engineers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Final recreation fee guidelines for use of developed recreation facilities at Army Corps of Engineers lake projects have been announced.

Maj. Gen. J. W. Morris, director of the Corps of Engineers civil works program, forwarded the final guidelines for publication in the Federal Register.

The proposed guidelines were published in the Federal Register on Feb. 1 to comply with 1972 Congressional legislation which requires that federal agencies collect uniform fees for comparable recreation facilities provided at federal expense.

The Corps has collected fees for use of family-unit campsites since 1969 in compliance with Section 210 of the 1968 Flood Control Act. Last year about a third of a million dollars was collected for use of 126 overnight campsites at Corps lakes.

The final guidelines forwarded to the Federal Register for publication establish a range of fees for use of five types of recreation facilities: camp and trailer sites, group use sites, highly developed multi-use sites, electrical hookups and elevators.

Fees for family-unit camp and trailer sites range from $1 to $4.50 per unit per day, depending on the facilities and services provided. The Corps said, however, that over four-fifths of the proposed family unit campsites would be available at $2 or below, as in the past.

Daily fee per family campsite with access roads, refuse containers, portable or pit restrooms, drinking water in or adjacent to campsite, $1; all facilities listed above plus picnic tables, fireplaces, designated tent or trailer space with restrooms pit or vault type, $1 to $2.

Daily fee with above facilities plus sanitary disposal station and vault type restrooms, $2 to $3; and all above facilities plus flush restrooms and showers and dust-proofed or paved roads, $3 to $4.

Group use site fees are based on the degree of development which may include some or all of the following: access roads, parking areas, drinking water, fireplaces, sanitary facilities, refuse containers, open play areas, swimming beaches, bath houses and shelters. Fees range up to a maximum of 50 cents per person per night. Or, in some cases, a minimum of at least $3 per night per group may be established without regard to the group size.

Highly developed multi-use site "day use areas" generally include paved access roads and paved car- trailer parking areas, vault or flush restrooms and other facilities built at substantial federal cost. Daily fees of 50 cents to $1.50 per car will be charged.

At least 10 cents per person round trip will be charged where elevators are provided as a special service to the public such as the sightseeing elevators on the face of the 717-foot high Dworshak Dam now under construction on North Fork Clear Water River near Orogina, Idaho.

Electrical Hookups will cost up to 50 cents per day.

The criteria used in establishing the range of fees include: the direct and indirect cost to the government; the benefit to the recipient; the public policy or interest served; the comparable recreation fees charged by other federal and non-federal public agencies within the service area of the management unit at which the fee is charged; the economic and administrative feasibility of fee collection.

Each district engineer will publicize the specific recreation facilities in his district where recreation use fees will be collected, the fees for each site and the periods during which fees will be collected.

More than 3,000 letters and petitions with thousands of names were received by the Corps in response to the proposed guidelines which were published in the Federal Register on Feb. 1.

About three-fourths of the letters received objected to charging any recreation use fees. Gen. Morris stated that the Corps of Engineers has no choice in the matter, since the recreation use fees are required by law.

In response to requests from the public, the period for receipt of comments was extended from Feb. 15 to Feb. 28.

The publication of the new guidelines in the Federal Register will clarify some of the issues raised when the proposed guidelines were published on Feb. 1. The initial publication included a consolidated list of proposed fees for all recreation facilities provided by federal agencies.

Some of the facilities listed which are not available at Corps projects caused some confustion, such as the minimum fees for boat rentals by other federal agencies: $5 and $1 for boats with or without power. There is no fee for launching a boat on Corps lakes. The final guidelines in the Federal Register will list only five recreation use fees which apply to Corps projects.

Morris pointed out that many public use facilities at Corps projects are available to the public without charge. No recreation use fees, for example, will be charged for access to water, primitive or slightly developed areas, visitors centers, overlook sites, or use of boat launching ramps, unless mechanical or hydraulic equipment is used.

Holders of Golden Age Passports, and those accompanying them, receive a 50 per cent reduction to the normal fees.

Recreation fee guidelines finalized by engineers

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Final recreation fee guidelines for use of developed recreation facilities at Army Corps of Engineers lake projects have been announced.

Maj. Gen. J. W. Morris, director of the Corps of Engineers civil works program, forwarded the final guidelines for publication in the Federal Register.

The proposed guidelines were published in the Federal Register on Feb. 1 to comply with 1972 Congressional legislation which requires that federal agencies collect uniform fees for comparable recreation facilities provided at federal expense.

The Corps has collected fees for use of family-unit campsites since 1969 in compliance with Section 210 of the 1968 Flood Control Act. Last year about a third of a million dollars was collected for use of 126 overnight campsites at Corps lakes.

The final guidelines forwarded to the Federal Register for publication establish a range of fees for use of five types of recreation facilities: camp and trailer sites, group use sites, highly developed multi-use sites, electrical hookups and elevators.

Fees for family-unit camp and trailer sites range from $1 to $4.50 per unit per day, depending on the facilities and services provided. The Corps said, however, that over four-fifths of the proposed family unit campsites would be available at $2 or below, as in the past.

Daily fee per family campsite with access roads, refuse containers, portable or pit restrooms, drinking water in or adjacent to campsite, $1; all facilities listed above plus picnic tables, fireplaces, designated tent or trailer space with restrooms pit or vault type, $1 to $2.

Daily fee with above facilities plus sanitary disposal station and vault type restrooms, $2 to $3; and all above facilities plus flush restrooms and showers and dust-proofed or paved roads, $3 to $4.

Group use site fees are based on the degree of development which may include some or all of the following: access roads, parking areas, drinking water, fireplaces, sanitary facilities, refuse containers, open play areas, swimming beaches, bath houses and shelters. Fees range up to a maximum of 50 cents per person per night. Or, in some cases, a minimum of at least $3 per night per group may be established without regard to the group size.

Highly developed multi-use site "day use areas" generally include paved access roads and paved car- trailer parking areas, vault or flush restrooms and other facilities built at substantial federal cost. Daily fees of 50 cents to $1.50 per car will be charged.

At least 10 cents per person round trip will be charged where elevators are provided as a special service to the public such as the sightseeing elevators on the face of the 717-foot high Dworshak Dam now under construction on North Fork Clear Water River near Orogina, Idaho.

Electrical Hookups will cost up to 50 cents per day.

The criteria used in establishing the range of fees include: the direct and indirect cost to the government; the benefit to the recipient; the public policy or interest served; the comparable recreation fees charged by other federal and non-federal public agencies within the service area of the management unit at which the fee is charged; the economic and administrative feasibility of fee collection.

Each district engineer will publicize the specific recreation facilities in his district where recreation use fees will be collected, the fees for each site and the periods during which fees will be collected.

More than 3,000 letters and petitions with thousands of names were received by the Corps in response to the proposed guidelines which were published in the Federal Register on Feb. 1.

About three-fourths of the letters received objected to charging any recreation use fees. Gen. Morris stated that the Corps of Engineers has no choice in the matter, since the recreation use fees are required by law.

In response to requests from the public, the period for receipt of comments was extended from Feb. 15 to Feb. 28.

The publication of the new guidelines in the Federal Register will clarify some of the issues raised when the proposed guidelines were published on Feb. 1. The initial publication included a consolidated list of proposed fees for all recreation facilities provided by federal agencies.

Some of the facilities listed which are not available at Corps projects caused some confustion, such as the minimum fees for boat rentals by other federal agencies: $5 and $1 for boats with or without power. There is no fee for launching a boat on Corps lakes. The final guidelines in the Federal Register will list only five recreation use fees which apply to Corps projects.

Home prices speeding ahead of buying power

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price for a home of your own is accelerating at a rate which threatens to leave much of middle- class America paying rent permanently.

Millions of families living on below- average incomes already cannot afford houses. New houses under $12,500 virtually disappeared for national Census figures in 1970 and under-$15,000- houses will join them soon. The $20,000- and- under houses, which accounted for nearly half of new houses a decade ago, now represent less than 10 per cent.

The causes for surging prices vary — easier money, higher labor costs, dwindling available land, bans on sewer hookups, spurting lumber costs and strong demands for bigger and better houses.

But the effect is illustrated by remembering Levittown, with its boxy, identical houses rolling like army columns over the hills and gullies of Pennsylvania and Long Island.

They absorbed their share of snide comments, but they cost $6,900 apiece — $100 down, $70 a month — and provided sanctuary for a housing - starved population coming out of World War II.

Levittown houses sell for $35,000 now.

The construction workers who built Levittown once moved right in themselves, but despite hefty raises, they now can't afford the houses they work on.

And the workers aren't the only ones.

"It's absolutely insulting to say to a man making $15,000 a year, 'you can't buy our least expensive house,' " said Peter Taylor, head of operations for Levitt and Sons' single- family- home division.

You must earn $18,000 a year now to qualify for a new Levitt house. "It's not low- income housing. It is not even middle- income housing," said Taylor. Our nation "is making decent housing something that's available only to an affluent few."

A home- seeker on a moderate income who wants to save his money a little longer can forget it, said Taylor. Houses are going up $3,000 a year. "If you can't afford it today, you can't afford it tomorrow."

If Levitt, one of the nation's pioneers in economical, mass- produced, prefabricated housing, is having trouble keeping housing costs down, consider what's happening across the country.

In Salt Lake City a family bought a house for $32,000 two years ago, made $2,000 in improvements and sold the house recently for $41,500.

In Milwaukee a builder is getting $49,900 for a four- bedroom house which brought $34,900 in 1970.

In Chicago, a family bought a suburban house for $34,000 in 1970 and sold it for $41,000 in 1971. Six months later the house sold again, this time for $44,000.

In San Diego a couple paid $39,500 for their three- bedroom house 2½ years ago and sold it recently for $63,500.

Go to a realtor in Dallas and he'll tell you you can't buy into a "desirable" neighborhood for less than $30,000. If you want that desirable neighborhood in Baltimore, earn $12,000 a year. Don't try in Oklahoma city if you're earning less than $15,000 a year.

Away from the big cities are cheaper houses, but prices are rising fast everywhere. The three- bedroom house which sold for $22,850 in Boise, Idaho, in 1971 is $27,400 now.

Of 30 cities checked in an Associated Press survey, all reported rapidly rising prices for single- family homes, usually at a rate of at least 10 per cent.

The average price of a new house has jumped from $16,825 to $24,844 in seven years, according to the National Association of Home Builders. It took 15 years prior to 1965 for prices to increase that much.

In mid- 1970 the average terms for buying a $30,000 house were $11,600 down and $231 a month for 25 years. Now, with easier down- payment requirements due to a federal ruling and relatively lower interest rates, the terms are $8,400 down and $228 a month for 28 years.

One result is that savings and loans closed $21.4 billion in mortgages in 1970 and $51.4 million last year.

The new money created a demand which strained the housing market despite a 56- percent increase in housing starts over the past three years.

But increasing costs overtook the easier money. Labor costs rose an estimated 8 to 10 per cent a year. Property taxes, an important component of monthly house payments, went up 10 per cent nationwide last year. In the Boston suburbs, hthe taxes alone on a $31,000 house can cost over $100 a month.

Lumber costs, according to a National Association of Home Builders estimate, have added $1,200 to the price of a new home over the past six months.

The average land price for a home rose from $4,982 in 1970 to $5,507 last year, according to the builders.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Enough latex foam-backed carpeting will be made in the U.S. this year to cover Washington D.C., according to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Approximately 157 million square yards of broadloom carpeting produced last year — enough to carpet 8 million large living rooms — had latex foam backing which makes carpeting easier and more economical to install, says Goodyear, a supplier of synthetic latex.

One result is that savings and loans closed $21.4 billion in mortgages in 1970 and $51.4 million last year.

The new money created a demand which strained the housing market despite a 56-percent increase in housing starts over the past three years.

But increasing costs overtook the easier money. Labor costs rose an estimated 8 to 10 per cent a year. Property taxes, an important component of monthly house payments, went up 10 per cent nationwide last year. In the Boston suburbs, hthe taxes alone on a $31,000 house can cost over $100 a month.

Lumber costs, according to a National Association of Home Builders estimate, have added $1,200 to the price of a new home over the past six months.

The average land price for a home rose from $4,982 in 1970 to $5,507 last year, according to the builders.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Enough latex foam-backed carpeting will be made in the U.S. this year to cover Washington D.C., according to the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Approximately 157 million square yards of broadloom carpeting produced last year — enough to carpet 8 million large living rooms — had latex foam backing which makes carpeting easier and more economical to install, says Goodyear, a supplier of synthetic latex.

Woman dies as rivers spill over flood levees in state

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain-swollen rivers across Missouri continued to overflow their banks Wednesday, flooding roadways, threatening levees and claiming the life of at least one person.

A Foley, Mo., woman, Charlotte Hadler, 53, was killed when a refrigerator on her flooded porch topped over and pinned her underwater. The Lincoln County coroner said the cause of death was not immediately determined, but Mrs. Hadler could have been drowned or electrocuted by the appliance.

The Army Corps of Engineers in St. Louis said the most critical situation existed in Old Monroe, Mo., where more than a hundred volunteers continued sandbagging operations through the night in an attempt to bolster a secondary levee along a two-mile stretch of the Cuivre River.

The primary levee there broke early this week and the secondary levee was all that separated the river from 2,700 acres of farmland and the town's 600 residents.

"As of now, we're holding our own. Barring any further rain we should be all right," said Richard Nieman, resident engineer for the Corps of Engineers.

By early today, sandbags had been piled five deep along the top of the levee. A spokesman said volunteers had been on the scene since Monday and were conducting the sandbagging operation from the river. Six Coast Guard boats were reportedly ferrying sandbags to the volunteers.

"We're having a record flood now," Nieman said of the Old Monroe situation. "We're higher than the 1947 flood, which local people remember as the biggest ever."

In southeastern Missouri, about 150 families in east Mississippi County were forced out of their homes in the area between Birds Point and New Madrid, south of Cairo, Ill.

Various sources estimated 70,000 acres of low-lying farmland were under water in the county. The flooding occurred when rising water backed through a 1,500-foot gap at the end of a levee near New Madrid.

The East Prairie Housing Authority opened 27 of its housing units to evacuated families, and the Corps of Engineers moved its emergency flood watch office from Cairo to Wyatt, Mo., just southwest of Birds Point.

In St. Charles County on the Missouri River residents were forced to evacuate their homes when the river swept into a 125 - unit trailer park.

Volunteers worked through the night on Kaskaskia Island, Ill., in the Mississippi south of Ste. Genevieve, Mo., in an effort to protect a levee around the island from wind and water erosion.

Although a spokesman for the Corps of Engineers said there was no immediate danger of the levee breaking, he said the levee was being reinforced because it may have weakened due to the fact the river has been high for so long.

The Mississippi topped the annex levee at Elsberry, Mo., Wednesday, flooding the 3,750 acre Clarence Cannon Wildlife Refuge, but authorities said the main Elsberry levee was holding.

In West Alton, the Corps of Engineers called the situation "nip and tuck." A spokesman said the Mississippi had topped some smaller levees there, but areas behind the main levee were in no immediate danger.

The Mississippi hit a flat crest at Hannibal, Mo., Wednesday, officials reported, and floodwaters began receding slowly from the southern part of the town.

Railroad operations through Hannibal have been halted due to the flood, and one official said it appeared they would not resume until sometime next week.

Despite the fainfall this week, the National Weather Service said rivers along most points in the state will crest by Monday. A spokesman said the rainfall so far has not had any significant effect on the river stages.

The Weather Service said the rising rivers present a "serious situation," which has been caused by one of the wettest Marches on record.

"We've got our fingers crossed, with more rain expected ... I don't remember a March like this," said Al Bertram of the weather Bureau's River District Office.

"It has rained about every third day. Many of our stations have reported 9 inches already for the month, when the total is usually about 6. I think when the figures are in this may be the wettest March on record," he said.

Meanwhile, a barge line president said the closing of the Missouri River to commercial navigation has created some problems but may have been the only answer.

The Corps of Engineers closed the river for 200 miles west of its mouth Tuesday in order to stop damage to levees from waves made by large boats. A spokesman said the river will remain closed to commercial traffic as long as the Mississippi is above flood stage.

Thomas Drennan, president of the Sioux City and New Orleans Barge Line, said the river's closing comes at the heaviest time of the year for shipments of grain, fertilizer and other farm products and supplies.

"Most grain sales are for delivery on a specific date," he said, "and there's no way to catch up if you lose a week or 10 days." He said his company would keep full crews on its boats to resume operations as soon as the river is reopened.

"While the cost of keeping crews is substantial, it's a drop in the bucket compared with what it would cost if operations continued under present conditions and levees and dikes were damaged," he said.

All-night committee session brings emergency appropriations

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Thirty hours and one all-night session after they began, a tired House and Senate conference committee reached agreement on an emergency appropriations bill.

The 10-member committee approved an $18.7 million bill, after resolving a deadlock between House and Senate members over an appropriation for storm control programs in St. Louis and rural sewer district money.

The compromise version now goes back to both houses of the legislature for final approval, before going to Gov. Christopher S. Bond for his signature.

Sen. Robert A. Young, D-St. Ann ended the stalemate between the House and Senate members by offering an amendment giving $1 million to St. Louis for the storm control, and $926,300 to the rural areas.

Senate members had said the appropriation for the two projects were not emergencies. Sen. Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said the funding really began a new state program which could result in new state funding on a large scale.

Other senators had urged the measure be placed in the regular appropriations bill now being considered by the House.

Rep. James "Jay" Russell, D-St. Louis, and chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and the House delegation took a firm stand against cutting the section out of the bill, because of a vote on the bill Tuesday.

Tuesday Young had sponsored another compromise to give St. Louis $2.9 million and the rural areas $926,300. The amendment was approved and the bill was informally finalized section by section.

However, the bill as a whole was rejected by the senators. Merrell said one senator had mistakenly voted for the amendment, and voting down the bill was the only way to keep the debate alive.

Several attempts at compromise by each side, were voted down during the all night session that followed.

Wednesday afternoon the committee broke up in a heated argument, after Merrell charged that a lobbyist was trying to exert pressure for the bill's passage.

"I'm not going to be subjected to this kind of pressure," Merrell said. "I don't know who sent him, but somebody sent him."

"I'm ready to call it quits too," one House member replied.

When the committee resumd work Wednesday night, Merrell charged that the Metropolitan Sewer District (MSD) in St. Louis had "millions of dollars in surplus, more than the state of Missouri," and they could use that for the storm control.

Russell said the MSD money was for sewer programs not for water storm control.

Later Russell said the testimony on MSD surpluses weakened the, up-till-then, solid House stand.

Young then proposed his amendment, which was approved by all five senators and three of the House members. Only Russell and John Blassie, D-St. Louis, voted against it.

The deadlock had held up $9 million in money for the State Department of Welfare. The money is needed to fulfill allotments to persons who receive aid to dependent children and aid to the disabled.

It was feared the bill would be bottled up in committee too late for the April 1 mailing date for some of the checks.

The final committee version includes $1.1 million for capital improvements, including renovation of the west end of the capitol and new offices for House members.

A $200,000 appropriation to the welfare department for food stamps and a $215,000 appropriation for the financially troubled Bi-State Transit Authority of St. Louis are also included in the bill.
